LOOK OUT FOR HIM

There was a young fellow in Redmond a couple of weeks ago who advertised himself as the "Human Hair Co." and claimed to make all kinds of hair goods for women. He ordered some business cards from The Spokesman office and failed to get them or pay for same when notified they were ready for him. This fellow registered under the name of L. J. Hall, and went from here to Prineville, stating he would return here soon. He has not yet returned and The Spokesman prints this to warn other newspapers to be on the lookout for the dead beat.

THE TUMALO TIMES

The Tumalo Times is the name of a new paper that is published at Laidlaw in the interest of that town and the Tumalo Irrigation Project. The paper is four pages of six columns each, and is well filled with news matter and advertising. In his salutatory the editor, S. R. Brown, says:

In presenting this issue of The Tumalo Times to the public we are asking favors of no one. We intend for the paper to stand on its own merits and the good it does the community. It is to be conducted with that end in view (and incidentally to better the editor financially.)

We intend to make it a paper for the entire west side including, besides the Tumalo Project, the communities near here. It is our intention to have correspondents in all of these towns as well as in the different construction camps, and in that way to furnish news of interest to everyone. All news of general interest to the whole county will also be published. We have made arrangements to get the proceedings of the Desert Land Board, and these will be published for the benefit of the settlers on the Tumalo Project.

We intend to have a large outside circulation and advertise the good things of this country to the prospective settler. For the advertiser, the large circulation which our local news service will bring in, will make the paper a valuable medium.

TO PREPARE

selection and preparation of a few of the more common specimens. Other similar specimens will be handled accordingly.

Sheaves of wheat should be gathered before the grain is so ripe as to shatter badly, and yet late enough to be properly colored. Great care must be exercised that the samples be selected at the most opportune time. Select large well filled heads, with as long a straw as possible, and grade with reference to uniformity of the length of heads. It is even better to select shorter heads if necessary in order to gain uniformity. Strip the straws clean of all blades or wrappings and arrange plumb at the tip of the heads. One effective way for securing an even arrangement of the heads is to select or make a long narrow box with no top and with one end knocked out, and by laying the straws in the box and by gently jarring against the remaining end and then tying, a perfect arrangement will be secured. The straw ends may then be cut off squarely with a sharp knife.

Tying

In tying great care must also be exercised, and especially next to the heads. Do not tie too tightly. Do not tie with a hard, sharp twine. A large, soft twine is much preferable. If a sheaf is tied tightly next to the top the heads will soon fall over and break off at the point bound. By wrapping soft paper over the heads of the sheaves you will protect against shattering and also from the sun.

Stools

Select a few stools of wheat and other grains and pull out carefully by the roots showing the extreme length of the straw and also the number of stocks to the stool. These require scarcely no arranging but should be shown as nearly as possible in their natural state.

Threshed Grain

Threshed grain should be bright, plump, and free from all smut, dust and weeds, and is more advantageously shown in lots of a bushel or more.

Alfalfa

Alfalfa is a nice exhibit crop if properly grown and selected. A fine stem and a thickness of leaves are the prime requisites of this crop. The extreme length is, of course, also important.

Fruits

Most fruits should be left on the tree until sufficiently colored, but picked before thoroughly ripened. Firmness is a great asset in keeping fruit. Do not pinch a piece of exhibit fruit. Do not polish exhibit fruit. Especially in the case of apples, a natural wax that is a great preservative is in this way removed, thereby deteriorating greatly the keeping qualities of the fruit. We will polish the fruit just before placing it on exhibition.

Vegetables

Vegetables should not be bruised or marred in any way. Leaf tops should not be cut off closer than 3 or 4 inches to the vegetable. Most vegetables should be cleaned dry rather than washing. In this way they will keep longer and look brighter.

Potatoes

Potatoes necessarily are the best exhibit material of the root crops. Above all do not wash potatoes. It is much better to clean with a brush. Select potatoes of uniform size—commercial potatoes—the kind the housewife likes—not freaks.

The success of Oregon's competition in the Eastern Land Shows depend upon the high grade specimens selected by you. Your co-operation is necessary in order that Oregon may demonstrate to thousands of eastern people just what her fertile soils are capable of producing.

We want letters from you containing questions and suggestions. We are anxious to assist in every way possible.

Assuring you of our appreciation for anything you may do, I am

Yours to command,

CATTLE FOR FARMERS

I wish to announce that I am buying spring calves, yearling heifers and milch cows from the Willamette Valley to turn to farmers in Central Oregon, that they may be able to get the greatest good out of their hay and other products of the ranch through feeding, and have the feed yard fertilizer to build up the land that so badly needs feeding. Most of this stock will be Durhams and Durham grades, some Holstein and some Jerseys, and I will buy them at a price so all farmers can nearly get their money out of the milk cows in beefing them. These cattle will be good for either milking or stock cattle, and stock cattle will make you money through growth and breeding. I will exchange for fat hogs or fat cattle ready for market, and balance cash.

Now is a good time to buy and get into stock which you so badly need. Will deliver about Aug. 30th. Cows will be fresh September and fore part of winter, and nothing misrepresented. Send in your orders not later than August 1st.
