HOW FAR REACHING IS AN ADVERTISEMENT?

The Redmond Spokesman reaches all sorts of people—the farmer, the merchant, the laboring man, the outside investor in real estate and the man who wants to buy a home here. No matter what you have to sell, there are those among our readers who need that very article. Many of them are newcomers in the county and do not know either the merchants or what lines of goods they carry. Their first impression is almost certain to be a lasting one, and the merchant who first gets their trade is likely to hold it.

It is very difficult to ascertain the results from newspaper advertising and how far reaching it is. However, some of the results can be traced. There is a merchant in Redmond, Alfred Munz, the hardware and agricultural implement man. He is a heavy advertiser in The Spokesman and he has found that his advertising in this newspaper is far reaching and brings results. One day Mr. Munz received a letter from a man in Idaho asking the prices on some of his goods, and stating that a relative intended moving into this section. When the relative came, he bought about $300 worth of goods, a complete outfit, although he intended locating some distance from Redmond. When Mr. Munz looked into the matter he found that a copy of the Spokesman in which he was carrying a large ad went to the town from which the customer came.

So it appears that one can never tell how far reaching an advertisement is. The main thing is to be continually on the job and get people to expect your advertisement and look for it as they would for a news story. As a certain large magazine expresses it: "Continuity of impression means successful advertising."

"SUBSCRIBER" SENDS IN A BATCH OF "POETRY"

The Spokesman is in receipt of some "poetry," sent in by a person signing their name "Subscriber." No other name was given, as is necessary in newspaper offices in order to secure publication of the dope offered for publication. After reading the "poetry" over we were about to consign it to the waste basket, but concluded to ask the linotype operator if he thought the machine could handle it without breaking down. He said it could, and to give it a whirl, so here goes, and this is what "Subscriber" sent us:

Little Willie had a monkey
On a painted stick.
He sucked the paint all off of it,
Which made him awful sick.
(The operator is now very, very sick, but will try to finish!)

No more he'll pull the pussy's tail
Or bang his little sister.
For his father hit him a kick in the pants
And raised an awful blister.
(Help! Help!)

Policeman Knife had by his wife
A pair of bouncing twins.
One took a cough which carried it off
From this abode of sin.
No sooner had number one into the coffin slid
Than number two went up the flue
To join the other kid.

(Subscriber: Yours is a heinous offense and it is the judgment of the "op" that you be confined in the "bug house" for sixty years!)

Outside people coming to Redmond always have and do now gain a favorable impression of the city and surrounding country—the city as a clean, well built, law abiding place, and the country as a section of great possibilities. Outsiders and newcomers notice the advantages we have here more than the residents do. But one way the Redmond citizen finds out he has a good town: He goes to some other town in the county on a visit and when he arrives home he contrasts the two towns, with the advantage all in favor of Redmond.

The good words that are being given the butter product of the Redmond Creamery are well deserved. Their butter is of a high class, and co-operative members of the creamery should extend to Mr. Merrick, the manager, the credit he deserves for bringing the creamery output up to the present high degree of excellence.

If the North Canal of the Central Oregon Irrigation Company was completed the land east of Redmond could be put under water and sold. This would bring in thousands of settlers in the Redmond district. How long, oh, how long before the Central Oregon Irrigation people will fulfill their contract on this canal?

The Spokesman has received an anonymous communication telling about a crooked man in business here; that he is getting so crooked people will have no dealings with him, etc. As no name was signed to the story the same will not be published.

The man who wants to get every penny of business in a town may succeed for a while, with his underhand work done by his "catspaws," but sooner or later he will get to the end of his string and bump up against a day of reckoning.

If by co-operation the farmers in this section can secure $200 weekly from the railroad companies from the sale of their garden products, why not co-operate with the Redmond Union Warehouse in selling this class of farm products?

The news that potato prices are to be higher all over the United States ought to bring a pleasant smile to the spud growers in this section of the state.

A dead merchant or business man in a town is a pitiful sight. Every town in the world has one or two of them.

Some unprincipled attorneys will go to any length short of murder to get business.

PIONEER TIMES TO BE LIVED OVER AGAIN

THREE DAYS OF SHOW ARE TO BE PRESENTED

Frontier Days Entertainment to Be Held at Walla Walla Will Portray Early History.

On the 25th, 26th and 27th days of September, 1913, there will be staged at Walla Walla, an entertainment that will appeal to the men and women who first came to this western land, and that will be of particular interest to those who came later to take up their abode, and to the visitor from other states.

Frontier Days is the name selected for the show. It will depict happenings of pioneer times. The ox team and the mule team, the stage coach and pony express—methods of transportation which have been succeeded by fast freights and faster express trains—encounters with hostile Indians and some of the difficulties encountered when the West was new, will be shown and the actors therein will be the men and the women who witnessed the scenes they re-enact.

There were pleasures and pastimes, too, in the days of old, and the manner in which the empire builders amused themselves—how they got a lot of genuine fun out of innocent sports—will also be shown. Old emigrant wagons, shot-riddled stage coaches, grizzled veterans of Indian wars and Indians who are now at peace with the whites, will be features. There will be riding, roping, racing, old-time dancing, with music by fiddlers, and there will be scores of interesting happenings during the three days of the show, which is to be given during the week of the Walla Walla County Fair, which in itself is also an attraction.

SOLD LAW PRACTICE AND LEFT FOR ROCKFORD, ILL.

G. A. McFarlane, who has been engaged in the practice of law here for the past two or three years, last week sold his practice and law library to Burdick & Murphy of Metolius. Mr. McFarlane has a position with Emerson, Brantingham Company at Rockford, Ill., manufacturers of farm implements and machinery, as traveling legal representative, a position that Mr. McFarlane has filled with other firms. Mr. McFarlane left for his new position Sunday night.

HOTEL REDMOND PROPERTY IS SECURED BY W. H. WILSON

A deal was made this week between Mr. Abbott, owner of the Hotel Redmond property, and W. H. Wilson of Valdez, Alaska, whereby the latter gentleman secured the hotel property in exchange for farm land in this vicinity. It is understood that Mr. Wilson contemplates a number of improvements in his new holdings next year. Mr. Abbott states he will remain in this section and bring in several of his relatives and place them on some of the farms he owns in the Redmond district.

Rev. L. H. Harrison, formerly of Gresham, Ore., has been appointed to the Baptist pulpit here.

Rev. W. E. Ragan has been appointed by the M. E. Conference to the Methodist church in Redmond.

Tum-A-Lum Lumber Co. ORGANIZES AN ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

We have recently organized, in connection with the Tum-A-Lum Lumber Co., an engineering department. It is the purpose of this department to aid in all questions along the building line that may arise.

Mr. Harold E. Crawford, a graduate architectural engineer, will be associated with the department and it is hoped that in this way we shall be able to render a real service whenever possible. For prospective builders who are unable to get local architects to aid them in their problems, this department will submit sketches and will endeavor to advise in regard to the best methods of proceeding. For special jobs where such local service is not available, this department will furnish plans and brief specifications to our customers, special instances superintendence during course of construction, whenever possible, may be furnished through this department.

In regard to the "Plan Books," copies of which we are sending you, this department will be able to give plans and specifications for any design therein and for any changes that may be desired in the designs. Estimates of the cost, the lumber bills, and bill of material will be furnished for each design. This book, by the way, is the Plan Book of the day and has in it a great many practical home fully described, also a number of excellent barn plans.

It is not our purpose, by organizing this department, to compete with local architects and contractors in the designing of local buildings, rather it is thought that we shall be able to aid customers who are not able to get such local men to serve them in this way. We are endeavoring to improve our facilities in rendering efficient service to our customers.

Trusting that we may be of service to you in the future, through our engineering department, we are,
Yours very truly,
