eastern side of the county in districts that have waited a long time for needed road improvements which they failed to obtain. The present county court, recognizing this condition, has stated that its policy during the coming season will be to spend a large per cent of the direct road tax money in the districts on the east side of the county and that part of the west side of the Deschutes river which is in need of road improvements and will not be directly helped by the expenditures of the bonding road money, thus equalizing the benefits of road expenditures this coming year. This action on the part of the county court will almost eliminate opposition to the bonding of the county for road work. It is with pride that the Journal notes that old Crook county is among the first of the counties of the state to take steps to help the farming and stock raising interests get their products to market at a minimum of cost, as well as to make traveling between the different communities at all times of the year much easier and pleasanter.

Young Lady (looking at rooms)—The sun doesn't come in here at all.
Landlady—No; that is why I charge so much for this room. You can sit by the window without any danger of getting freckled.

Angry Investor—Well, I've been out and seen that building lot I bought of you.

Real Estate Man—You're just the chap I want to see. What does it look like?

PUBLISHERS OF SCHOOL BOOKS CALLED DOWN

STATE SUPT. MAKES THEM COME TO TIME ON PRICES

Plan to Secure as Low a Price on School Books as Other States Enjoy

Salem, Ore., Sept. 18, 1913.

To the Editor: In our contracts with the various school book publishers the law requires the State Board of Education to take the prices as reported to us by the State Text Book Commission.

In our contracts, however, we added a clause to which all of the publishers agreed and signed without protest, to the effect that the publisher will not sell any book at a greater price than is charged for such book in any other state in the United States.

This department discovered a short time ago that the Palmer Writing Lessons for primary grades was selling in other states for 15 cents, while the contract price in this state is 20 cents. The higher book, known as Palmer Method of Business Writing, is selling in Chicago for 16 cents, while the contract price in this state is 25 cents. We took this matter up with the Palmer people and after threatening to bring suit on their bond we got them to instruct their agent in this state to notify all dealers that these books would be sold for 15 cents and 16 cents respectively. If any of the children in your community have paid a higher price than this they should take the books back and ask for the difference. The J. K. Gill Company, agents for the publishers, informs me that the publishers will make the amount good to your local dealer.

That the patrons of the schools may know they need not pay these high prices, I will appreciate your announcement of this notice.

This department is endeavoring to do all that is possible in securing for the boys and girls of Oregon books at as low a price as they can be secured anywhere in the United States. We will continue our investigations on every book contracted for use in our schools.

Very truly yours,
J. A. CHURCHILL,
Supt. Public Instruction.

GREAT ADVERTISER VISITS PORTLAND LAST WEEK

Americans are prone to believe that they are extensive advertisers, but there was in Portland last week an Englishman who probably is the greatest advertiser in the world. He is Sir Joseph Beecham, manufacturer of the world-known pills that bear his name, now touring the United States in order personally to supervise his advertising campaigns for the coming year.

"I most heartily believe in newspaper advertising," said Sir Joseph, "for it pays. My laboratories turn out a million and a quarter pills every day of the year; the demand for them has been created by advertising. I have spent $10,000,000 in the past ten years in advertising. Ninety-eight per cent of it has been in the newspapers. At present I advertise in 15 different languages and in every country on the globe."

She—I wonder why they hung that picture.

He—Perhaps they couldn't catch the artist.

PROFIT IN POULTRY RANCH

poultry business here that a poultry farm is an excellent money maker. In the last eight months he has sold 876 chickens for $673.20. In the same eight months he has sold 60,000 eggs for an average of 30 cents per dozen. This means that he has received $1,500 from the sale of eggs in eight months.

The above figures do not include the eggs that have been used for settings by means of which Mr. Cogswell is constantly renewing his supply of chickens, nor do the figures include the eggs or chickens that have been used in Mr. Cogswell's home.

Mr. Cogswell figures that where the poultryman has to buy everything that is used to keep the chickens, the cost per chicken is $1 per year. Figuring then, that the egg sales and chicken sales continue through the year at the same rate that they have kept up during the past eight months, the year's sales will bring Mr. Cogswell in the neighborhood of $3200. Of this probably $1,200 would be spent in keeping the chickens, thus leaving a profit for the year's work of $2,000.

Despite the fact that he has sold 60,000 eggs in the past eight months, very few of these have been sold through the stores. Mr. Cogswell states that it is very seldom that he sells a case of eggs to a store. He has his egg customers who do not think of buying an egg from any other place. The eggs that Mr. Cogswell sells have the reputation of always being fresh and that is the secret of his success in the egg business in Chehalis.

Mr. Cogswell says that where a poultryman has sufficient ground to enable him to raise his own feed, there is no reason why his profits in the business should not be ex-larger than those made in the where the space is necessarily limited. The fact remains, however, that even under city conditions Cogswell is making a good profit from his ranch, and what he has done, others can do.
