The economical buyers will pronounce this sale a wonderful success from the standpoint of economy. Every store carrying a large stock of merchandise cannot possibly forecast the season's demand well enough to buy the exact amount of merchandise for that season, and naturally find themselves overstocked on some of their best merchandise. We believe it a good policy to give the public an opportunity to buy these goods at reduced prices, clear them out and get new goods for the next season. This method enables us always to have new goods.
