MANY SHEEP ARRIVE FOR SUMMER RANGE

Sisters Herald: During the past week more than 25,000 head of sheep have passed through Sisters, bound for their summer range, and as many more will be in within the next week or ten days. Most of the sheep are shipped from adjoining counties to Redmond, Bend and Terrebonne and driven from there to the range allotted to them.

With the rapid increase in the number of small herd cattle raisers the number of sheep ranged within the National Forest in this part of the state is being reduced each year. If the range is worth enough to justify shipping sheep several hundred miles to pasture on it, it is worth as much or more to the local stock men for their cattle.

No reports as to the growth of the range in the higher regions have been received so far, but judging from the lower range the pasture will be as good or better than ever.

4 1/2 Miles Southwest of Laidlaw.

The Tale of the "Tum-A-Lum Silo"

There lives a young farmer not far away,
Who received a letter the other day
From a lumber firm in a nearby town
Who are turning the wheels of progress around.
It told of Silos, tall and straight,
With free specifications and plans—so easy to make.
Designed by experts—using only stock lumber
Of the kind known around Redmond as just "Tum-A-Lumber."

Some sample prices were quoted, too,
In order that he might know what to do
When canvassed by agents for silo firms
Who charge more money and give less returns.

Now, this young farmer is nobody's fool;
He was educated in a practical school,
Where he learned the value of hard earned cash,
So he read those prices once, twice, thrice;
Then he rubbed his eyes and scratched his head
And once again these lines he read:
A ten-foot silo just twenty feet high,
Built of "Tum-A-Lumber"—all nice and dry,
By any farmer with free plans—complete
With cement foundation, roof and doors hard to beat.
All material except nails—one day's notice—laid down
For Eighty-Four Dollars in his own home town.

There never was money more prudently spent,
With me its a question of dollars and cents.
But how they can do it, I cannot see,
Underselling Shears Sawbuck is a new one on me.
He took the letter to town next day
And asked the author if he meant to say
That he could do as the letter said
And pay the cash for his daily bread.
The lumberman smiled and answered this way:
"You see we've no money for a patent to pay.
Our Silo material is here in our yard.
No agent—nor sub-agents—to boost prices hard.
I can sell you that Silo for Eighty-Four Dollars today,
To be taken and paid for in October, say.
The same silo with a patented stave and door,
And no better, will cost you One Hundred and Fifty Dollars or more."

A "TUM-A-LUM SILO," coated inside and out,
Lasts just as long, with many superior points thereabout.
"Well, well," said the farmer, "I now plainly see,
That you and your company are good friends to me.
I'm anxious to sign up my order today,
For that kind of prices can't be here to stay."
Now that farmer is sleeping the sleep of the just;
He doesn't fear drought or the deadly black rust.
He'll have plenty of feed to last him till spring;
Great Profits for You a "Tum-A-Lum Silo" Will Bring.
