J. W. Brown, one of the substantial citizens of Tumalo, was here on Tuesday. He figures that county division has no very great support even in the Tumalo section, as people have been considering the matter from a business standpoint and can see nothing in it but a chance for higher taxation, and of that they have about all the traffic will bear now.

A Powell Butte correspondent takes exception to some of the statements of the very active press agent of Bend, whom, it is alleged, claims everything in sight for that place, when as a matter of fact there is very little in the agricultural line in its vicinity. The Spokesman's notice in that false statements and claims will always eventually rebound to the detriment of the locality that sends
