Oct. 26, 1922 — A wonderful musical treat
A large and enthusiastic audience heard from Casford-Reed Violin-Vocale in their concert at the gymnasium last night. Miss Casford's rendering of the well-known violin solo, "Ava Maria," was exceptionally fine. Miss Reed's piano solos were also very popularly received.
The next concert will be Nov. 28 with Gorst The Bird Man, America's greatest nature lecturer and bird imitator.

An early homestead west of Terrebonne, probably Don Hall's place.

Oct. 30, 1947 — Halloween fun must be that!
"Trick or treat" fun that is not malicious nor destructive is part of Halloween and will not be disturbed by the law, chief of police Harry E. Hogue points out. Everyone wants the youngsters to enjoy themselves Halloween.
However, damage to property will not be tolerated, and offenders will be dealt with by officers. A full force is to be on duty Friday night, Halloween — just in case!

Nov. 1, 1972 — COCC student contribution tips project over $10,000
A $2,000 contribution from the associated students of Central Oregon Community College has pushed project ASSET-1972 over the $10,000 mark, according to Dennis Karnopp, drive Chairman.

The $2,000 gift represents cash carryover funds in last year's student activity budget. The COCC student government voted to donate the money to the COCC Foundation's emergency student loan fund. Karnopp emphasized that the gift is made up entirely of student activity funds, not public tax monies.
Project ASSET-1972 is an annual fundraising project sponsored by the COCC Foundation, a group of private citizens whose aim is to raise scholarship and loan funds for COCC students.
Last year's drive attracted more than $17,000 in private gifts. Drive officials are hopeful of meeting that figure this year.
The foundation also hopes to meet a goal of 25 full-tuition scholarships donated by business and professional men and women.

Persons wishing to donate to Project ASSET-1970 may do so by mailing their contribution to the president's office at COCC. All gifts are tax deductible, according to Karnopp.

Oct. 29, 1997 — State Hall's work on Highland extension
Responding to a call from the Gov. John Kitzhaber to freeze new highway construction, the state Tuesday halted work on $6.3 million highway improvement project in Redmond.
Hoping to get the planned widening and extension of Highway 126 (Highland Avenue) back on track, members of the city council plan to meet next week with the head of the Oregon Department of Transportation.

The state is nearly finished with preliminary planning for the project. An 18-month analysis of environmental impacts was to follow, with construction set for 2002-2003.
Highland, the route of Highway 126 through Redmond, is targeted for an extension directly east across Highway 97 through Ray Johnson Park, eliminating an awkward jog through several downtown blocks. Straightening the highway also is intended to ease congestion at the North Y intersection of Highland and Fifth and Sixth streets.
Redmond's interim city manager, Vergie Ries, and city staff members learned the state had halted work on the project during a meeting Tuesday morning.
"They're getting direction to shut down construction projects right where they are," Ries said.

The change in policy follows Kitzhaber's suggestion Oct. 15 to end road improvement projects in five years so all gas tax revenue could be spent on highway maintenance.
Although work on the highway extension has ceased, OTOD completed enough planning for the project that it will release a recommended configuration.
Armed with that information, as well as a city staff report being prepared this week on why the project is important for the region, city council members Randy Povey, Duane Gilbert and Bob Green have scheduled a meeting with ODOT's directors Nov. 8 at the League of Oregon City's convention in Eugene. They will urge the agency to finish the Redmond project.
"We are going to try hard to influence any type of project prioritization that will take place, Ries said.

Guess Who?

I am an actor born in California on October 24, 1989. My first on-screen credit came in 2009. I had a recurring role on "Switched at Birth," but made an impression as a superhero of sorts on a Netflix series about kids with powers.

People in Redmond are being crushed by rising gas, food, and housing prices. As your City Councilor, and a local small business owner, I understand this skyrocketing cost of living is unsustainable for families and businesses alike.

As your City Councilor today, and with your vote in November, I will continue to work to create more affordable housing and job opportunities in Redmond.
