Portland, Or., Nov. 16 .- That Astoria gillnetters will fail in their effort to drive out salmon wheels and traps is the plain evidence on several sides. The United States Fish Commission opposes them and so do the Everyone enjoyed a good time at authorities of Oregon and Washingtonn. It is altogether probable that the Washington commission of 18 members, which met in Seattle last Mrs T J Hill is spending the week week, will oppose the gillnetters and will call for regulation of all kinds of fishing gear, and that the Oregon Conservation Commission, a committee of which is investigating the matter, will do the same. Oregon's new fish warden takes this view and declares that all gear should be regulated and none abolished.

Affairs have reached such a stage that the closed season will undoubtedly be lengthened by the two legislatures this winter. There are now only two closed periods, one 30 days long, between March 15 and April 15, and the other 16 days long, between August 25 and September 10. These were the closed seasons up to the enactment of the inoperative initiative laws in Oregon.
