NEW PENNSYLVANIA STATION, NEW YORK, NEARING COMPLETION.

As the new terminal of the Pennsylvania railroad, in the heart of New York city, nears completion property values in the neighborhood are increasing with leaps and bounds, and the effect is felt far out on Long Island, whence the tunnel trains will carry vast armies of passengers to and from their suburban homes. This the most gigantic terminal enterprise ever undertaken will bring trains under the Hudson river from the west and connect with Long Island also by tube under the east river. The terminal station will be the most modern structure of its kind ever built, combining every known facility for the safety and comfort of passengers and the rapid handling of trains.

SUBLIMITY.

SUBLIMITY, Or., Jan. 6—George H. Bell, John Kintz and several other town people attended the funeral of Mrs. J. P. Williams at Stayton on Friday last, in whose death this community has lost a kind neighbor and a long-to-be-remembered friend.

As your correspondent was driving down the road one day last week he noticed in the distance what he thought to be two astronomers in the middle of the road, who with a large spy glass were trying to locate Halley's comet but on closer investigation he found that what he had taken for a spy glass was nothing more than a quart bottle and instead of putting it to their eyes they held it to their mouths. Now, your correspondent is a prohibition, local-option, anti-saloon, anti-wet, dry-town man in all of their different phases; still, the cold foggy air of the morning caused his weak nature to get the best of his better judgment and seizing his whip he belabored his horses to get to the spot before it was too late, but imagine his disappointment when, arriving on the scene, he saw the last drop of the heat-giving, nerve-strengthening, life-giving fluid disappear and to see the bottle thrown in the fence corner, where it struck the ground with a sickening thud, and the supposed astronomers to start on their way apparently much refreshed, but thanks to short supply of the aforesaid liquid his New-Year's resolutions are still in force.

Among the different parties who banded together around town to welcome the new year, probably the most enjoyed was at the Miller home, south of town. The evening was spent in games and merry making and when the new year had arrived all partook of a bounteous feast prepared by Miss Odell, (of whom Mrs. Miller is justly proud as an up-to-date cook); part of which consisted of daintily prepared pine apple and magnificent walnut covered cake, (a piece of which was saved for your correspondent the next day); then all left for their respective homes. Among those present, besides the Misses Leon Dean and Odell Miller, were Frank Reisterer and Miss Rosa Becker, Max Hill and Miss Bertha Klingler, Clarence Hunt, Joe Brewer.

Chris. Giebler is very busy with his feed chopper nowadays; so much so that the puffing of his iron horse and the buzzing of his chopper can be heard at night long after what we call quitting time of the year.

P. M. Hermens, the Hazelwood man, is having quite a time to keep the steam and water pipes at his plant from freezing these days, and Peet says that the weather can not moderate any too soon to suit him.

The assistant superintendent of the S. P. Co., and three of said Co.'s doctors, were at Aumsville in their special train one day last week giving their station men a physical examination, and found our Harvey (as we always find him) O. K., not only physically, but from a social and business standpoint as well.

Chas. Schmidt has entered the employ of Philip Meier, our up-to-date blacksmith, is an apprentice and the continuous ringing of his anvil's clang is music to our ears. Here's success to you, Charley.

James Ripp, who is employed as apprentice in A. VanHandel's harness shop, is getting along nicely with his work and will soon be able to turn out harness himself.

Theo. Ripp, P. M. Hermens and their families, visited at the Prange home Sunday evening last, and Mrs. Prange's usual kindness and hospitality were enjoyed by all.

Sister M. Regina, Principal of the public school, has returned from her visit at St. Mary's and reopened her school again.

Fred Geier, who has been visiting at J. A. Ditter's during the holidays, has returned to his California home.

P. Meier spent several days at Portland on business last week.

Paul Zuber and Henry Susbauer have entered the employ of Hottinger and VanHandel in their sawmill east of town, where they will stay for the winter. —P. M. H.

OAK GLEN.

Stayton Mail Correspondence.

OAK GLEN, Or., Jan. 6—A party was given at the home of Peter Burghart Tuesday evening. Those who attended were John Stadler, Peter Etzel, Frank Etzel, Rosa Etzel, Joe Etzel, and John, James Duman, Vincent Duman, Minnie and Cassie Duman, Joe, Peter, Henry, Veronica and Anna Neitling, John Hafner, Agnes and Barbara Burghart, Carl and Tillie Schultebein, Fred Wourms, Chris Cramer, Mike and Albert Neitling.

Peter Burghart and wife visited their daughter Kate in Portland. She is sick with pneumonia.

Some young people of this neighborhood will attend the entertainment and basket social at Triumph.

M. Becker of Portland, who designed and built the woolen mill is visiting here.

CARD OF THANKS.

J. P. Williams and family wish to extend their thanks to neighbors and friends for their untiring help and tender sympathy during the sickness and death of their beloved Wife and Mother.

Dr. Everett Hobson, after passing the Xmas season with his folks here, returned Sunday to his medical studies in Salem.

Appropriate.

A family of children, after the usual Saturday night romps, gathered in the drawing room for music and singing. As bedtime drew near the mother said:

"Now, children, choose one hymn to finish up with, and then you must all say 'Good night.'"

"Let's have 'Ere Again Our Sabbath Close,'" suggested a bright little girl of about seven years of age.

"Well, I think that would be more suitable tomorrow evening," replied the mother.

"Oh, but you always air our Sabbath clothes on Saturdays, mummy!"—London Tatler.

What Did She Mean?

Harold—What did she say when you turned out the gas and kissed her?

Rupert—Said she felt as if she never wanted to see my face again.—Philadelphia Record.

BLOODHOUNDS USED BY MOORS IN WAR WITH SPAIN.

During the early stages of the Spanish war in Morocco Major Richardson, the bloodhound expert, was in the camp of the Rifis with several of his dogs. The Moors, seeing how well trained the dogs were, evolved the idea of using them to develop the position of the Spaniards. Several of the animals were dressed in white turbans and gowns and sent out from a flank position occupied by the Rifis. Mistaking the dogs for Moorish troops, the Spaniards opened fire, and their position was disclosed, giving the Rifis a good chance to fire upon the Spanish flank.
