Squabtown

The Ladies' Dirge Club is practicing a late song hit, entitled "Another Grain of Dope in Father's Coffee."

W. Evergrouch Tomlin returned this week from the lakes. He says the spring water didn't agree with him, the fish wouldn't bite, and nearby campers with booze disturbed his rest during the whole trip. Poor Evergrouch certainly does have a tough time.

Rev. Elijah Hostetter will next Sunday commence a series of sermons on "Hell." The series will start with "Hell's Fireworks," and will include "The High Cost of Living in Hell," "The Scarcity of Ice," and "The Tariff on Brimstone." These are appropriate hot weather subjects.

Jerry Snuff, Squabtown's noted attorney, has just been initiated into the Ancient Order of Blue-jays. He passed a strenuous chattering examination, and was the only successful candidate from this district. The editor of The Squawker squawked manfully, but choked on the last mouthful and disqualified.

Everybody had a good time at the hop picker's hop last night. It was a regular hop-fest with Pop Hopson as floor manager. The ladies wore hop leaves in their hair and as buckles on their shoes, while the gentlemen frequently repaired to the rear of the hall where considerable bottled hop had been accumulated. Squabtown is the biggest pole in the hop-field when it comes to setting the fashions.

At Thomas, Oregon they tho't they had a long boy. He is 6 ft. 4 in. when fully extended, and only 18 years of age. Then the Portland Evening Telegram bobbed up with a youth who topped the Thomas wonder by a scant half inch, and they took half a column to tell about it. Next the Salem Statesman dug around in the type cases and found a red headed monstrosity that showed an altitude of 6 ft. and a trifle under 6 inches more, and then the capital city paper bragged about it on their front page with a double leaded article a foot long. This is all very well as far as it goes, but if one wants to see the real thing in vertical extension, come to Squabtown. Alexander Ambrosius Kilometer, who is of French descent, is not only a sesquipedalian by name but also by nature. His paternal domicile is located about three miles northeast of Squabtown on Pigeon Hill. The old folks have lengthened the doors of their house three times already to accommodate this rising young man, who is only 17 years of age and 6 ft. 11 in. from zenith to nadir. He is guaranteed to be able to lick salt from the top of the head of any other youth in Oregon.
