A Hairpin

It is claimed on good authority that next to a monkey wrench, a hair pin is the most useful invention. A woman can open a time lock, burglar-proof safe with a measley little hair-pin. They use them to scratch their heads, button their shoes, pick their teeth, punch bed bugs out of their cracks, run into cakes to see if they are sufficiently baked, clean finger nails, fasten up stray bangs, pick out nuts, lift stove lids, clean their ears and do many other useful things.

Rome's Triumphal Crown.

The triumphal crown of Rome was made of laurel leaves and was given to the general who achieved a great victory over an enemy. He entered the city not by a gate, but over a portion of the wall which was thrown down to afford a passage. At his funeral his laurel crown was placed in his bier and buried with the body.
