A good thing to do under such circumstances is to take something like

GOVERNOR SCRAPS

Governor West and Frank Perkins, an Evening Telegram reporter had a fighting, kicking and striking contest in a corridor of the capitol building at Salem last Friday night says the Daily Statesman.

It is reported that the Governor got in the first lick and floored his man in regular Marquis of Queensberry fashion. It is probable that the state's executive will have an offer to go into vaudeville as soon as his term expires.

LANCEFIELD SALE

This issue carries elsewhere an announcement of a Public Sale of the Lancefield Shoe Store stock of Boots and Shoes. This is advertised as something more than an ordinary Clearing Sale. Mr. Lancefield says the bargains offered will eclipse all previous efforts along this line, because he is compelled to sell at least $2,000 worth of the stock before March 4 in order to make some important changes in his business which cannot be carried out until the stock is reduced a great deal.

An unusual offer of $1.00 cash to each of the ten persons who are first to enter the store when the Sale opens at 9 a. m. Saturday, February 22, has created considerable interest and there is sure to be a large crowd on hand.

Another feature of the Sale which will make it an object to the people to attend the Sale every day is what they term their "Big Ben Bargains" which will be offered every day for one half hour only. Every day something different will be offered at a price said to be below wholesale price in every instance from 10 to 10:30 a. m. only. Mr. Lancefield explains that this will be done simply to attract big crowds of people every day whom he frankly states he expects to buy many other goods too, once they are in the store and see the unusual values on every hand.
