Russian Troops Swarm to Attack German Rear

New York .- Russian troops to the number of 150,000 have passed through England and are now at the rear of the German army in France, according to Vance Thompson, an American writer who arrived here on the Red Star liner Kroonland, which sailed from Liverpool August 28.

On that day, Mr. Thompson said, he saw detachments of Cossacks on their way to the Channel ports, and learned fund is being formed to assist sick and that the British government had suspended the regular train service in order to give the Russians the right of way. He added that he could say from reliable authorities that 150,000 Russians had already crossed the Channel from Paris and other places in France and were now probably attacking the German rear, while it was understood way from Archangel by the Arctio route to England.
