A CHANCE FOR YOU

We are going to help you and ourselves at the same time. We are going to educate you up to the value of using the classified department of The Stayton Mail. Have you any idea of the money you could make if you were to let all the people in this county know what YOU had for sale? Do you know that no matter how apparently useless some article has grown, some other person has a use for that article AND WILL BUY IT?

But he cannot buy it if he does not know WHERE to get it. In the big cities the classified departments of the newspaper are as interesting as the news columns. In fact they contain real live NEWS. And those who use them are reaping great advantages—Both the Buyers and the Sellers.

Of late the smaller papers are pushing their classified departments into more prominence. The other day we picked up a weekly, published in a county seat town in Wisconsin. Its classified column was "A WONDER." Apparently everyone in the county was using and reading it. Lack of space prevents us from reproducing it, although we would like to do so. But here are a FEW of the things that were advertised for sale by the farmers and the townspeople: Houses, lots, farms, glass cupboard, chickens, sewing machine, turkeys, rugs, eggs, upholstered goods, crockery, geese, butter, correspondence school course, cheese, feathers, manure, incubator, horses, finger ring, automobile, jars of fruit, fence posts, hogs, (plain and fancy) embroidery lessons, suit of clothes and fur overcoat, home made bread, a colt, library of 100 volumes, home knit socks, cream separator, two calves, concrete block machine, tame bear, gasoline engine, heating stove, hay, rag carpets, home cured hams and bacon, wind mill, a general store, alfalfa meal, desk and chair, typewriter, cabinet organ, short horn bull, bird dog, hay stacker, rake and loader, five tons of coal and a gun.

If YOU have any of the above named articles for sale—or anything like them—let us know and we will run a classified ad in The Stayton Mail. The cost is very small, only 5 cents per line for one insertion or 10 cents per line for three insertions. For 20 cents per line we will keep your ad running for 10 weeks. Someone wants what you have to sell.
