What's In a Name?

One summer a distinguished member of the French academy rented a cottage in Savoy, and when the time came for his return to Paris he went to say farewell to the owner of the cottage, a prosperous farmer's wife.

"I hope you will write your name in my album before you go," she said.

"With pleasure," he replied, and, taking a pen, he wrote his name in the book.

"Thanks," she said, "but won't you please tell me your profession, so that I can write it after your name?"

"Oh, put down 'landowner,'" he answered.

"But that isn't a profession," she said.

"Well, then, put down 'academician,'" was his answer.

This word seemed to puzzle her, and therefore he asked, with a smile, "Don't you know what an academician is?"

"Not quite," she answered, "but it's such a long word that the profession must be a splendid one."

A Chinese Proverb's Origin.
"He'll steal your shoes" is an expression which in China is used to describe an arrant knave and pilferer. The expression is hundreds of years old. A wealthy Chinaman, whose gorgeously embroidered shoes were the envy of the community, was, according to the legend, despoiled of his pride in the following manner: A rascal one day rushed up, gave the rich man a hearty blow on the back and, seizing the astonished gentleman's hat, pitched it upon a high wall. The next moment the fellow seemed to discover that it was not an old friend he was greeting so enthusiastically and apologized profusely.

"How shall I get my hat?" inquired the man with the beautiful shoes.

"Jump on my back, and you can reach it," replied the schemer.

The suggestion was carried out, but while the hatless man was reaching for his head covering the rascal slipped off the handsome shoes and made away, leaving the simple minded millionaire clutching the wall.

Old Tin.

The expensiveness of pure tin accounts for the care with which it is handled. It is astonishing how little tin can be made to cover thousands of cans. Yet tin would be still more expensive than it is had not the following process been invented for its recovery at very low cost: Great heaps of empty cans (preferably washed and dried by mechanical means) are piled up in an airtight room. Warm chlorine gas is forced into the room, where it reaches every nook and corner of the cans. The warm gas has a tendency to unite with tin and form tin chloride, a highly volatile liquid. The mixture of gases, consisting of air, free chlorine and the vapor of tin chloride, is passed through a condenser, where the tin chloride is separated from the other gases, and by a simple chemical process the absolutely pure tin is precipitated.—New York World.

A Hint For Photographers.
Carbonate of soda is an accelerator for the reducing agent. With most developers, when they are dissolved alone in water, the image will ultimately appear, but it will come very slowly. Add a strong solution of carbonate of soda to the reducing agent and water and the image will fairly leap at you. The reduction of the bromide of silver has been tremendously hastened, and it is also more thorough and complete, the negative having much greater density. This is the safe mission of a carbonate of soda in the developer. It is to speed things up and complete the action.—Outing.

Why Lead Is So Heavy.

Although lead is the softest metal in general use, it is very dense—that is, its particles are very compactly united, and there is no room for air to circulate in between these particles. Most apparently solid substances are penetrated by more or less air, and this, of course, affects the weight in proportion to the bulk. A piece of wood is lighter than a piece of lead of exactly equal bulk because the little particles which make up the piece of wood are not very close together, and it contains a lot of air.—Boston Herald.

Looking Far Ahead.

The vivid imagination of childhood is as a fairy charm for magnifying possibilities. A small boy, being directed to empty his bulging pockets, brought forth among other strange treasures a circular piece of rubber. Asked its nature and purpose, he made answer: "Well, that's a real good washer. I'm going to start an automobile shop with it some day."—Pittsburgh Press.

No Idle Gossip.

"There's one thing I can say," said Mrs. Waggles, "and that is that I never indulge in idle gossip."
"No," replied Miss Cayenne. "You must be given credit for industry in whatever you undertake."—Washington Star.

Hard Water.

The Papa—What's the baby crying about?
The Mamma—Oh, he's being washed!
"Oh, is the water as hard as that?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Too Much of One.

He—You do not seem to be so anxious for a flat now. She—How can I be? Didn't I marry you?—Baltimore American.

If fun is good, truth is still better and love best of all.—Thackeray.

DO INSPIRATIONS
EVER COME EASY?

SURE, WHEN I'VE GOT THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW

THE GOOD JUDGE LEARNS FROM THE ARTIST

TOBACCO satisfaction—a chew of "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew.

The comforting taste of rich, mellow, sappy tobacco comes—and it lasts. Made of ripe, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough.

"Right-Cut" goes twice as far as any other tobacco for the same money. Get a pouch and see for yourself.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short ahead so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary caudled tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and glucose. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Carpet Knights.
"Carpet knights," quoth a writer once in the long ago, "are such as have studied in w. physics or other arts of sciences, whereby they have become famous, and, seeing that they are not knighted as soldiers, they are not therefore to use the horseman's title or spurs. They are only termed simply miles and miles, 'knight,' or 'Knights of the Carpetry,' or 'Knights of the Green Cloth,' to distinguish them from those knights that are dubbed as soldiers in the field."—Argonaut.
