Securing Happiness.

A Woman's Way.

So determined is a woman to "look up" to the man she loves that if she married a worm she would dig a hole in the ground and crawl into it in order to be able to put her head on his shoulder and say: "Darling, how big and strong and tall you are."

OUR COAST DEFENSE

In these modern days of heavy armament and scientific war equipment, much thought has been given to our coast defense. The question of preparedness is one that concerns all patriotic Americans for it is always the unexpected attack that causes consternation.

This is also true in matters pertaining to health. That great enemy of health—Stomach trouble—may spring an unexpected attack at any time and it is well to be prepared by always keeping a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in the house. It is your bulwark in time of distress.

Be on guard at all times, and as soon as you notice the appetite failing, digestion becoming impaired, the liver inactive and the bowels refuse to perform their daily functions, commence taking the Bitters. Prompt action, together with the aid of this medicine, has been the means of preventing much suffering from Sick Headache, Nausea, Poor Appetite, Indigestion, Constipation and Biliousness.

Don't trifle with your health, but rather help Nature when weakness is manifested. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is Nature's ally, and these together, form a combination that is sure to result to your welfare. Try it today, but be sure you get Hostetter's.

rough on the Congregation.

An old Scotch minister who did not quite regard himself as the paragon of pulpit perfection, addressing his assistant, remarked that it was singular how he felt more fatigued after hearing him than in preaching himself. To this the assistant replied that he experienced a similar feeling when his reverend constituent was in the pulpit. "Then," rejoined the minister, "I peety the folk that have to hear us bath!"

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends and give you permission to publish my testimonial."—Mrs. LAWRENCE MARTIN, 12 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Manston, Wis.—"At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and loins until I could not stand. I also had night-sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicine but got no relief. After taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. The pains left me, the night-sweats and hot flashes grew less, and in one year I was a different woman. I know I have to thank you for my continued good health ever since."—Mrs. M. J. OLD JOKE IS SPOILED

Pound of Feathers Weighs More Than Pound of Lead.

Has Been Established as a Scientific Fact—Matter of Volume is the Point That Must Be Considered.

The old joke, "Which is heavier, a pound of lead or a pound of feathers?" is not quite such a joke as it seems at first glance. Archimedes taught us the truth that a body immersed in a liquid or gas receives an upward push equal to the weight of the liquid or the gas it displaces. Suppose we arrange a balance so that one of its arms can be introduced under the bell of an air pump, and place upon each of its arms a weight, say one pound, both weights made of the same size. They will exactly balance each other. If we exhaust the air from under the bell, producing a vacuum, we remove the upward push, and the arm of the balance that is in the vacuum descends. If on the contrary we compress the air under the bell we make the displaced air weigh more and consequently the upward push is increased and this arm of the balance ascends.

It is manifest that the greater amount of air displaced the greater will be the upward push. Suppose now we balance a pound of lead on one arm and a pound of feathers on the other. They will, of course, exactly equal each other in ordinary air, for they were both weighed in ordinary air. Now let us put the whole apparatus, including both weights, under an air pump. The pound of feathers displaces far more air than the pound of lead, and if we exhaust the air we shall find that the upward push being removed by the exhaustion of the air, the pound of feathers descends and the pound of lead ascends, proving that the seeming paradox that a pound of feathers weighs more than a pound of lead, is no joke but a scientific fact.

Therefore it may scientifically be said that of two substances having the same weight and not the same volume, that having the larger volume is really the heavier.

Shoots Deer With Opium.

John Benham, a well-known Wisconsin guide, who had been commissioned to capture a huge deer alive for a private game preserve near Hurley, Wis., has captured the biggest deer ever taken alive in that state—a six-prong, 300-pound buck—by the simple expedient of using opium pellets instead of the usual lead bullets in hunting. Benham had a druggist make him the shot he wanted—a mixture of gum arabic, flour paste and opium. Then he went to watch for the deer, which all of the guides had, because of its size, refused to allow hunters to kill. When he saw the big fellow he cut loose with his gun, and he caught up with the deer two hours later, when it had fallen asleep in some balsams. When the deer woke up it had been boxed.—Brooklyn (Wis.) Dispatch to Detroit Free Press.

Mink Gets Big Trout.

While crossing the bridge over the creek near H. P. Johnson's sawmill at Bethany, Wayne county, New York, George Bennett saw a mink dive through the ice and catch a large trout. Bennett called to Monroe Tyler, at the mill, and the two men pulled the mink with stones in an attempt to capture him. Bennett's dog assisted by chasing the mink to his hole, from which the two men dug him with pickaxes. When the mink was finally killed he still retained the trout, which measured 14 inches in length, in his mouth.

Ferocious Duck Nips Tramp.

"Beware of the Duck" is the sign Edgar Wilhelm of New Freedom is preparing to tack to the yard gate. The fowl, a particularly large one, has delegated to itself the duties of a watchdog. Its loud quacking gives warning of the approach of a stranger, day or night, and it savagely attacks intruders, as a tramp who came recently to the house to beg, has reason to know. He was pinched in the seat of his trousers so painfully that he beat a hasty retreat, the duck flying after him to the gate.—York (Pa.) Dispatch to Philadelphia Record.

Literary Note.

The first sentence of Henry James' novel has been published in book form. It has been running as a serial and has attracted much attention. Several of the film manufacturers have been approached with a view to turning it into a photoplay, but have declined on the ground of expense, declaring that it would take from fifteen to twenty episodes to film it in its entirety.—Philadelphia Ledger.

STORM SAVED BURNING SHIP

Waves, Breaking Over Abandoned Craft, Extinguished the Blazing Benzine.

A strange shipwreck story, unreported by cable from the Azores, arrived at New York from Horta, Fayal, by the Holland-America freighter Zaandijk, which was forced to put into this port by heavy weather that reduced her coal supply. Captain Barendsen says he learned of the arrival of the Norwegian tank steamship La Habra, which arrived at Horta on February 7, bound from Talara bay, Peru, by way of the Panama canal, for London, that her cargo of benzine caused an explosion aboard as she was nearing the Azores to replenish her bunkers.

La Habra was quickly ablaze from stern to stern. About half of the crew were on the forward part of the tank and the other half aft. Fearing that the falls and other boat gear would be burned, the tank's skipper ordered all hands to leave her in lifeboats and stand by. The engines had been stopped and La Habra drifted into the trough and, as she was deeply laden, the seas, which were very high, washed over her.

The chief officer and five men were in a boat towing astern when the hatches of the tank were blown off and cataputs of blazing benzine shot over her sides and stern. The boat's painter was burned off and the chief officer and his men went drifting down the blast, being without oars or sail, and disappeared. The other boats were threatened with destruction by the burning benzine, which spread out all around La Habra, making her look like a fire ship in a lake of flame.

The skipper of the tank expected her to be destroyed utterly before his eyes. He was elated when a giant comber broke around her, dousing the fire almost completely. Other seas helped in the work, and all hands except the chief officer and those in the vanished boat went back on their ship. They found that all charts, books and instruments of navigation had been destroyed.

London's Treasures Guarded.

Extensive precautions have been taken in London to guard art treasures against the menace of air raids. The custodians of art galleries and museums long ago removed to vaults or similar places the most precious of their portable exhibits. At the British museum a number of priceless manuscripts, books, and other objects have been stored away in safes. Some measure of risk must, however, be borne in a building which contains 40 miles of bookshelves and massive pieces of sculpture. Visitors to the National gallery find the major part of the building closed. At the Guildhall the most valuable pictures have been placed in the basement. The magnificent Gainsborough, "Fording the River," has been removed from the walls. In the corporation strong room in the basement is stored what is probably the finest collection of municipal records in the world. It includes the charter of William the Conqueror to William, Bishop and Gosford, Portreeve, and all the burghesses within London," securing to them their ancient liberties. Every reign since the Conqueror is represented in the charters.

Soldier's Unmarried Wife (who has been living with her man for eleven years, to charming and aristocratic widow, the local representative of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Families' association)—Well, ma'am, I'm going to be married next week, and I want you to come to the wedding. You've been so kind it would not be right without you.

Fair Widow—I shall be delighted to come, Mrs. Brown. What day is it? Mrs. Brown—On Thursday, ma'am. Fair Widow—That is very unfortunate. I am afraid I cannot go, as I have another important engagement.

Mrs. Brown—is it very important, ma'am? Can't you put it off? Fair Widow—Well, the truth is, I am going to be married myself.

Mrs. Brown—Ah, I quite understand. It doesn't do to miss the chance of getting married when you gets the opportunity!—London Tit-Bits.

Real Sanitation in Air Towel.

An "air towel" used in the large public lavatory in the District building at Washington, D. C., is the invention of J. M. Ward, superintendent of the District building. In appearance it resembles a rectangular box eleven inches by three, set in a sanitary base having twelve-inch legs, with an opening in the top of the case in which the wet hands are held while being dried. The device consists of a blower that forces air through an electric heating element to ducts and deflectors suitably placed for distributing the warmed air to all parts of the hands at the same time, and is operated by a foot lever or pedal, which in turn operates a quick-acting switch, thereby setting the blower in motion. By removing the foot the device is put out of operation. The hands come in contact with no part of the device, thus assuring a perfectly sanitary operation.
