"OLD GLORY"

And Why the Town of Sand Hill Didn't Hoist Him.

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1915, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was Enos Hopkins who got the idea that Sand Hill should prove her patriotism to the world at large by displaying the American flag for seven days a week. He got the idea one Sunday mornin' as he lay in bed, and he hugged it to his soul and chuckled over it for a week before he said anything to a livin' soul. Everybody knew by his actions that somethin' was up.

At length, when Saturday night came and there was the usual crowd at the postoffice, he shot off his gun. He had his speech all prepared. He told how the American flag was first hung to the breeze; how men cheered for liberty as they saw it; how it had given happiness to millions. Men had fought cheerin' for that flag, and men had died blessin' it. He wanted it hoisted in Sand Hill at sunrise every day in the year, and he wanted children to cry for it and men and women to venerate it.

As soon as the crowd had recovered from its surprise and began to cheer Deacon Black said it was a mighty strong p'int and one worthy of a leadin' patriot of Sand Hill. He was heartily in favor of the idea, and he would then and there contribute 13 cents toward the purchase of a public flag.

Then Hosea Saunders spoke. His grandfather had died while fightin' under the stars and stripes. His father had fallen and killed himself while climbin' a flagpole. His mother had wrapped him in the flag of liberty when he was born. It was hard times and money was tight, but he would go without tobacco for a month in order to contribute a shillin' toward the purchase of a flag. With his own hands, if agreeable to all, he would hoist the emblem at sunrise and lower it at sunset durin' the rest of his natural life.

The deacon said that was also a beautiful speech, with a mighty strong p'int to it, and the feelin's of the crowd had got so worked up over freedom and liberty that tears stood in many eyes. Hosea was followed by Squar' Joslyn, Philetus Williams, Abraham White and others, and that was frequent cheerin' and shakin' hands.

About ten years ago Abijah Davidson's dog tore the ear off a hog owned by Joel Hardman, and the men had been enemies ever since, but under the excitement and patriotism engendered by the speeches they fell into each other's arms and became brothers ag'in. It was settled that a public contribution should be taken up to buy a fifteen dollar flag, and then came the question of where it should be raised. Enos Hopkins, who had started it all, got up in a modest way and said he would go to the expense of plantin' a pole in front of his house. It was on high ground and the flag could be seen from every house in town.

"We wouldn't put Enos to all that trouble," said Deacon Black as he rose up. "He's done his sheer in thinkin' out the plan. I'll see that the flag is duly displayed from the roof of my cooper shop when it arrives."

"What's the matter h'listin' it over my grocery?" asked Dan Skinner as he wiped the tears of emotion from his eyes. "It isn't as high as some places, but more central."

Then everybody bobbed up and demanded to be heard. Every man present wanted that flag in front of his house or place of business and nowhere else, and party soon they was shakin' their fists and sayin' they'd be burned if they wouldn't have it there or refuse to contribute a red cent. There was a lively row on in two minutes, with no more weepin' over patriotism.

Deacon Black rattled on the stovepipe with his cane until he quieted the racket, and then he said:

"Feller patriots, have we no public spirit among us?"

"We have!" yelled the crowd.

"Then let us exhibit it. Bein' my cooper shop is the highest buildin' in town and bein' the American flag has got to fliplop in the breeze to be seen and venerated, I unselfishly offer to put up a pole and take charge of the flag."

"So do it!" shouts every man in the crowd.

Then Squar' Joslyn made a speech. He told how a million men had died for that flag, how its stars and bars had made tyrants tremble, how a young nation had worshiped it and made all the world respect it. He wound up after ten minutes by offerin' to float it from his boss barn, but only hisses and groans followed. There was signs that three or four patriots would soon be punchin' each other's heads when Tom Bates strolled in in that careless way of his. Deacon Black pointed and rattled till he got order and then said:

"I want to hear from Tom Bates on this matter. Mebbe he can suggest somthin'. Tom, what place in town would you say the American flag ought to float from?"

"How many stars are there in the American flag?" calmly asked Tom. Nobody could tell.

"Well, how many stripes?" Nobody could tell.

"Pears to me," said Tom as he started to wander out ag'in—"pears to me that as none of you can tell the difference between the American flag and a tablecloth you'd better hang up an old army blanket most anywhere and let it go at that!"

And at the end of five minutes more there wasn't a patriot left in the post-office, and nothin' more has ever been said about buyin' a public flag.

THE GOOD JUDGE ARRANGES TO GO BIRD SHOOTING

WHEN you're tramping all over creation after game, you don't want a big bunch of ordinary tobacco sweating in your hip pocket. There is tobacco satisfaction for two, and plenty of it, in the sweat-proof sanitary pouch of Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR W-B CUT CHEWING TOBACCO. IT IS THE NEW REAL TOBACCO CHEW—CUT LONG SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)
