How to Be Happy Though Chicagoans A Chicago couple celebrated their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary some time ago. Believing their long years of wedlock have qualified them as experts on the subject, they have drawn up the following recipe for marital happiness—and the Chicago "Tribune" prints it:

1. Love each other all the time.
2. Keep silent when she wants to argue. 3. Keep silent when he wants to argue. 4. Use good common sense in times of depression. 5. Don't blame your husband when he's doing his best. 6. Don't scold. 7. Have a few children playing around the house.
This married couple have lived up to the seventh of their commandments and now that their own youngsters have grown up they have seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.
And we notice this detail of the recipe: these rules are applied to both parties, not just to one of them. We haven't yet arrived at that stage of civilization wherein we honestly apply the Golden Rule in all life's everyday relations, but applying some part of that Rule at home means having a home.—Colliers.

A Good Player.
"Thump-rattley-bang" went the piano.
"What are you trying to play, Jane?" called out her father from the next room.
"It's an exercise from my new instruction book, 'First Steps in Music,'" she answered.
"Well, I knew you were playing with your feet," he said grimly, "but don't step so heavily on the keys—it disturbs my thoughts."

Insulted.
"I don't see Grigsby at the club any more. He used to spend nearly all his time there."
"Yes, but when some of the other boys suggested that he ought to spend something else besides his time once in a while he got mad and resigned."

No Room For It.
"Will you have a cherry or an olive in your cocktail, major?" asked the host.
"Neither," replied the major. "They merely take up a lot of space that might be better devoted to the likker."

"Truth, crushed to earth, will rise again," quoted the Sage.
"Yes," responded the Fool. "But it seldom rises in time to get the number of the joy rider's machine."

WASHINGTON DRY MEASURE UPHELD

Supreme Tribunal Hands Down Unanimous Decision.

DOCUMENT IS LONGEST ONE EVER FILED

Decision Upholds Woman Suffrage and Recall Also—Main Objec- tions Fully Disposed Of.

Olympia, Wash.—Washington's prohibition law was upheld unanimously by the Supreme court Friday and will become effective January 1.

The decision, the longest ever filed in the history of the court, containing 19,200 words, not only validates the initiative prohibition measure, but also specifically upholds the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution against the latest and most weighty of the objections brought against it.

The effect of the decision is to adjudicate for all time the validity of the direct legislation amendment.

Since the same objection urged against the initiative and referendum amendment, that of insufficient publication, could be urged equally against the woman suffrage and recall amendments, the real effect of the decision also is to uphold these additions to the constitution.

The majority opinion was written by Justice Emmett N. Parker, with Chief Justice George E. Morris and Judges O. G. Ellis, O. R. Holcomb, John F.
Main and Wallace Mount concurring.
There are no dissenting opinions, but Judge S. J. Chadwick notes, in a separate opinion, that he does not follow the reasoning of the majority, but yields his judgment and concurs in the result "not because it is the law as I had understood it, but because it has been so declared by a competent tribunal."

Judge M. A. Fullerton notes that he does not follow the majority reasoning, but concurs in the result and will file a separate opinion later rather than postpone further the filing of the decision.

Briefly, the Supreme court decides that it cannot, and will not, notice admitted irregularities in connection with the publication both of the initiative and referendum amendment and the prohibition law, which, though stipulated by counsel in the case, do not appear as part of the official state records and are not matters of common notoriety. This disposes of the main objections.

The court then decides that any question of interference with interstate commerce is settled by the Webb Kenyon act of congress of 1913, dis-vesting intoxicating liquor of its interstate character, and that the privileges in regard to sale and prescription of liquor granted to pharmacists and physicians do not constitute such discrimination as to invalidate the act.

The one crumb of comfort left for the "wets" is that the court did not pass on any constitutional question raised from the consumers' standpoint, the court stating specifically that since this was an injunction action to prevent enforcement of the act only questions involving property rights could be considered.

American Rights Brings Senate Storm.

Washington, D. C.—The long-expected storm in congress over the re-administration's conduct of the defense of American rights on the seas broke Saturday when Senator Hoke Smith, Democrat, demanded an investigation of Great Britain's interferences with neutral trade and Senator Lodge, Republican, replied with a demand that any investigation include the loss of American lives.

"The body of an innocent child, floating dead on the water, the victim of destruction of an unarmed vessel, is to me a more poignant and more tragic spectacle than an unsold bale of cotton," declared the Massachusetts senator.

Men Cling to Launch.

South Bend, Wash.—Word reached here Saturday of the heroic struggle made by Captain C. O. Reed and Mate Cuts, of the fishing launch Airdale, of Bay Center, during a storm in which both nearly lost their lives and were rescued.
They had left South Bend Tuesday night with a load of 15 metal tanks of gasoline for a fish-packing plant at Bay Center. They were a short distance from the fish company's wharf at Bay Center when the oil tanks were lost and the launch filled.

Fruit Scarcity Predicted.

Kansas City—Plums and cherries may become scarce in the United States as a result of the European war, according to reports given here by speakers at the 26th annual convention of the Western Association of Nurserymen. Imports of plum and cherry seedlings, grown chiefly in Europe, have been cut off by the war.
The association, it is said, represents more than one-half of the nursery business of the nation.

WILLING FOR PEACE, BUT GERMANY WILL NOT TAKE FIRST STEP

Berlin—So long as uncontrolled hatred of Germany and the belief that Germany is approaching a collapse continues to be the dominant idea of her foes, it would be folly for Germany to take the initiative in proposing terms of peace. Germany, however, is ready at any time to consider a peace suggestion from the countries with which she is at war, does not wish a continuation of the war and disassociates herself under these circumstances from any responsibility for its prolongation.

This is the substance of the German Imperial Chancellor's reply in the Reichstag to the Socialist interpellation on peace, in which he painted a picture of Germany triumphant on all sides and supplied with everything, even if not in abundance, necessary to

THEODORE E. BURTON

The candidacy of former Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, for the Republican nomination for the presidency, received a considerable impetus by the formal withdrawal of Governor Willis of Ohio from the race, and his announcement that he would throw his support to Mr. Burton.

the continuation of the war.
The interpellation was introduced by Dr. Schneidemann, in the following terms:

"Is the Imperial Chancellor ready to give information as to the conditions under which he would be willing to enter into peace negotiations?"

"If our enemies make proposals compatible with Germany's dignity and safety," said Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, "then we shall always be ready to discuss them. So long as in the countries of our enemies the guilt and ignorance of statesmen are entangled with confusion of public opinion, it would be folly for Germany to make peace proposals, which would not shorten, but would lengthen the war.
First the masks must be torn from their faces."

Only two Socialists spoke on the interpellation, all the non-Socialist parties uniting in a short declaration opposing discussion at this moment. The tone of the debate was dignified and patriotic and the Imperial Chancellor was followed attentively and respectfully except for occasional interruptions and outbursts of laughter from the Socialist, Dr. Liebknecht, who has not been in accord with his party since the beginning of the war, and who received no sympathy.

The Imperial Chancellor in his first speech, lasting half an hour, explained the military situation on all the front and declared emphatically that Germany could not be starved out. The country had enough food, if properly distributed. Germany's enemies, he said, were suffering more than the Germans, and paying higher prices for food.

Movable Coast Guns Likely.

Washington, D. C.—Gigantic guns mounted on motor trucks or railway cars probably will be added to the country's coast defense system as a result of experiments now being made by army ordnance experts. It is learned that a scheme is being worked out for establishing mobile batteries to protect stretches of coast line not commanded by fortifications. The European war has demonstrated that high-power guns can be used as mobile weapons, Germany's 42-centimeter howitzer having revolutionized land warfare.

British Vote Hits Liquor.

London—A rebuke to the liquor interests was seen in the re-election Saturday to the house of commons of Postmaster General Herbert Samuel over Henry Knight, a printer of Leeds.
In a bye-election in the Cleveland division of North Riding, Yorkshire, he piled 17312 votes against Knight's 1453. Mr. Knight opposed recent enactments restricting liquor sales, declaring he represented the consensus of opinion among the laboring classes.

Hog Raiser Raps Prices.

Spokane—Packers in the northwest have virtually cornered the pork market and are holding down prices, with the result that farmers who produce hogs are going to be forced to pass up northwestern markets and sell in the east, according to I. H. Jorgens, president of the Union State bank of Nez Perce, and a hog raiser. Mr. Jorgens says hog raising is becoming an important industry in the Nez Perce country.

"Our section ships three to five cars of hogs every Tuesday from Nez Perce, and they go mostly to Seattle and Spokane," said Mr. Jorgens. "Packers are paying only five cents a pound, which we regard as much too low, the present high prices of grain considered. We must have $5.75 to $6 a hundred to make the business profitable.

"The packers seem to think they have a corner on the market and are taking advantage of it. Our hog raisers will be forced to sell in the east if northwestern prices do not improve, or they must go out of business.
We have shipped hogs east from Nez Perce before and have realized more than in northwestern markets and we may be forced to do so again."

Flour Goes Soaring.

All local grades of flour is advanced 20 cents a barrel. This put the wholesale price of patents at $5. There is a similar advance in the Puget Sound market. The rise occasioned by the strength and higher price of wheat.

A year ago the patent flour market stood at $6. Influenced by the war flights of the wheat market, flour prices climbed rapidly until February 6, 1915, when they touched $7.20, the record quotation for the Portland market. The extreme price was not held long and the market began to fall steadily until September 21, when it reached $4.80, which price has been maintained up to this time.

Help Reaches Minnesota.

San Francisco—The wrecking steamer Iaqua and the tug Dauntless, sent from here last Friday to the assistance of the Minnesota, reached the disabled steamer at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and took her in tow, according to a radio message from the Iaqua received here by C. W. Wiley, marine superintendent of the Great Northern Steamship company. The message, Wiley said, came from the Iaqua, and, although he expected word from the Minnesota, he had heard nothing at a late hour Wednesday.

Trenches Bad as Roundup.

Pendleton, Or.—William Darby, a former Pendleton boy, now a soldier in the English army, has written to friends here from Kent. Darby, who was recently wounded in three places, has fully recovered from his wounds and is ready for the trenches again.
He says that he is happy as can be and that every man faces death much as does a man getting on the famous Roundup bucking horse, Long Tom.
Darby intends to return to Pendleton.

Sea-Fighting at Long Range.

The fight in the North Sea began twelve miles away. When the Bluecher was struck, she was ten miles from her English enemy. When von Spee and Craddock fought off Chile, they opened fire at a distance of 12, 000 yards; and Craddock had old-fashioned obsolete ships. If old-fashioned obsolete ships open fire at 12,000 yards, what the superdreadnoughts can do, may be guessed. What they can do, experts say frankly, is throw a 2000-pound projectile twenty-five miles with such accurate range-finders that the deflection will be only twenty yards for six miles. In fact, the improvement and change in naval equipment has been so swift and revolutionary that the life of a battleship has been rated first rank for only five years. In speed, in size, in armor proof, and big gun fire, the changes have come so fast since 1905 that the nations had either to fight it out or cripple themselves financially building bigger and bigger monsters of the sea; and oddly enough, the changes all date from a little "cheese box on a floating saucerpan," the Monitor of Civil War fame. From the time the Monitor and the Merrimac spat out their fire-cracker shots at each other, it has been a race among the nations for speed, armor proof, big guns, and long range.
Those best informed declare that the big gun and speed have rendered secondary both armor proof and submarine; but these are disputes that will be finally settled in the present war.
Neither side has had any monopoly of courage. The courage of both sides has been magnificent,—almost terrible, but speed and the big gun have won.—From "What Sea Power Means to England," by A. C. Laut, in the American Review of Reviews for December.

Pay $10,000,000 for Poodles.
"The most astounding extravagance of the women of America is that we spend $10,000,000 each year for poodles." Mrs. R. L. Barker told this to the delegates to the annual meeting of the Women's International Missionary union in New Orleans in describing how American women make the money fly. She continued:
"We spend more for hats yearly than it takes to support the army and navy and several other federal departments. We also spend $107,000,000 for soft and cooling drinks and $178, 000 for candy. It is time to call a halt and to return to the sane ways of our mothers."

He Was The Man.

A colored man called at Mrs. Barley's looking for work.
"What is your name?" she asked, after hiring him.
"Mah name is Poe, ma'am," was the answer.
"Poe!" she exclaimed. "Perhaps some of your family worked for Edgar Allan Poe; did they?"
The colored man opened his eyes wide with amazement.
"Why—why, ma'am," he said, as he pointed a dusky finger at himself—
"why, Ah am Edgar Allan Poe!"

Not A Thought Promoter.

"You must admit that my speech has stirred a lot of people up," remarked the orator.
"Yes," replied his friend, "you have stirred 'em up all right. Your appeal to sentiment and emotion ought to set them to thinking."
"That isn't the purpose. Remember I am an impassioned leader. I depend on unquestioning obedience. My method is to get 'em so excited that they can't think and will take my word for it."—Washington Star.

Strenuous.

Abner—Well, Jay, how d'ye like it up 't the city?
Jay—Aw, it was all right enough most ways, but what bothered me most was tryin' to look at everybody I met on the street.—Puck.

Relaxation.

"What did your husband think of the ball game?"
"Oh, he doesn't go there to think.
He just hollers."

THAT COLD YOU HAVE

may bring sickness, doctors bills and loss of work; you know that serious sickness usually starts with a cold, and a cold only exists where weakness exists. Remember that.
Overcome the weakness and nature cures the cold—that is the law of reason. Carefully avoid drugged pills, syrups or stimulants; they are only props and braces and whips.

It is the pure medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that quickly enriches the blood, strengthens the lungs and helps heal the air passages.

And mark this well—Scott's Emulsion generates body-heat as protection against winter sickness. Get Scott's at your drug store to-day. It always strengthens and builds up.

Sure of Help.

The boy was very small and the load he was pushing in the wheelbarrow was very, very big.
A benevolent old gentleman, putting down his bundles, lent him a helping hand.

"Really, my boy," he puffed, "I don't see how you manage to get that barrow up the gutters alone."
"I don't," replied the appreciative kid. "Dere's always some jay a-standin' around as takes it up for me."

A Problem.

Little Elizabeth and her mother were having luncheon together and the mother, who always tried to impress facts upon her young daughter, said:
"These little sardines, Elizabeth, are sometimes eaten by the larger fish."

Elizabeth gazed at the sardines in wonder and then asked:
"But, mother, how do the large fish get the cans open?"

Not Particular.

Brown—Did I leave an umbrella here yesterday?
Barber—What kind of an umbrella?

Spillsport.

"Young man," said the magistrate severely, "the assault you have committed on your wife was most brutal.
Do you know of any reason why I should not send you to prison?"
"If you do, your honor," replied the prisoner at the bar, hopefully, "it will break up our honeymoon."—Philadelphia Ledger.

NEW MODERN DANCING.

E. Fletcher Hallamore, the leading Dancing Expert and Instructor in New York City, writes: "I have used ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, for ten years, and recommend it to all my pupils." It cures and prevents sore feet. Sold by All Drug and Department Stores, Etc. Sample FREE. Address, Allen

Not Guilty.

"Do you know that that young man who is going to marry your daughter is an inveterate gambler?"
"Nothing of the sort. He merely thinks he is. Why, I trimmed him out of fifteen dollars myself at stud poker the other night."

Had to Follow.

Jim had looked in at the country livery stable in search of a job. He seemed promising and was set to work greasing the axles of a carriage. In a remarkably short space of time he reported the task finished.
"Look here," said his new boss, "d'ye mean to say you've greased all four of them wheels already?"
"Well," rejoined the new hand,
"Aa've greased the two front ones."
"And why haven't you greased the two hind ones?"
"Well," exclaimed Jim, calmly, "so long as the two front ones gans all reet, the two hind ones hev to foller."

Apt Title.

"This collar stud is my own invention," said the Cheap Jack, "and the name I have given it is 'Fault.'" "Because everybody has faults?" suggested the red-nosed man in the crowd.
"No, my dear sir; simply because it's so easy to find."
