A Cartoon Jab From India.

Many nations have expressed their bitterness against Uncle Sam for "making money out of the war." We have been held up to ridicule impartially by England, Germany, Greece, France, Italy and Japan. Now India may be added to the list. In a cartoon from Hindi Punch, of Bombay, reproduced by Cartoons Magazine, Uncle Sam and Japan are seen, each with large money bags under his arms. The caption reads "Make Hay While the Sun Shines," and underneath we read: "I'm filling my bag with Indian silver while the Austrians and Germans are busy with the war. And you?"

Yankee: "Ditto, ditto. And something more. I'm filling mine with the gold of the allies, besides."

Welsh President.

E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, said in Washington:

"Though we can get any price we ask for our munition products from Europe, we haven't increased our price to the American government one cent."

"Yet there are people who, in the face of this, accuse us of overcharging Uncle Sam. These people are as ludicrously ignorant as the schoolboy who was asked:

"What do we get from Wales?"

"Jonahs," the schoolboy answered."

A Fireside Grouch.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "you can never complain that I am a frivolous society woman."

"No. Your idea of a pleasant evening is to sit down and ask me to explain all about preparedness, the balance of trade, orders in council, and the submarine controversy all in two hours and a half."—Washington Star.

He Knew.

"Did you ever know that there is a lot of symbolism connected with a deck of cards? Hearts, for instance, signify love."

"Yes, I know. Last night I held a spade flush against four aces and I had to dig."

Never Mixes 'Em.

"Have you studied political economy?"

"No, sir. Economy is all right in its place. I'm one of those who believe keeping business out of politics."—Washington Star.

Feminine.

"There is one good thing about buying a really handsome and expensive dress," said Mrs. Bunting to Mrs. Larkin.

"What is that?"

"Why, you feel as though you really ought to buy another not quite so good to save your best one."—Puck.

Even the Children.

"An embusque in French, a slacker in England, means a man who shirks the dangerous duties of war, and among the warring nations the pursuit of embusques and slackers goes on relentlessly."

The speaker was Edna Wallace Hopper, who has just returned from France. She continued:

"Even the little children take their small part in this relentless pursuit. They tell a story about a little girl in Paris whose mother said to her in the Bois:

"Look—in that big automobile—that is Gen. Joffre."

The little girl looked at the venerable commander-in-chief and frowned.

"Mamma," she said severely, "why isn't he in the trenches?"

Ice is Used in Orchards to Retard Budding.

Near Luling, Texas, a number of orchardists are trying out a rather interesting plan of retarding the budding of their fruit trees until all danger of damage by late frosts has passed. The experiment consists of burying about fifty pounds of ice around the base of a tree when the weather becomes mild early in the season. The supply is replenished at intervals of two weeks until it is safe to allow the trees to burgeon. Ice is being supplied to several growers by a local producer to encourage the test with a few trees. Although a considerable expenditure would be represented were the scheme carried out on a really large scale, it might not prove excessive if successful in preventing crop losses. Late frosts are a source of much anxiety to growers of early fruits, not alone in the South, but elsewhere as well.—From the April Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Hopeless Remedies.

J. P. Morgan said at a dinner in New York:

"The German financial position is desperate. The remedies proposed for it reminds me of the horse-thief."

"Two men were sentenced by a vigilance committee to be hanged for horse stealing, and the rope was swung from a bridge over a river."

"But the first horse-thief got off. The noose slipped, he fell into the water and swam down stream to safety."

"When they came to deal with the second horse-thief, he said anxiously, as they tied the rope 'round his neck: 'Make sure o' that noose this time, won't you, gent? I can't swim.'"

Fair Enough.

"Look here, Hiram," said Si, "when he you goin' to pay me them $8 for pasturin' your heifer? I've had her now for about 10 weeks."

"Why, Si, her critter ain't worth more'n $10."

"Well, s'posin' I keep her fer what you owe me?"

"Not by a jugful! Tell you what I'll do; keep her two weeks more and you can have her."

Von Jagow as a Cartoonist.

"Like his distinguished superior Emperor Wilhelm," says Cartoons Magazine, "Herr Gottlieb von Jagow, German secretary for foreign affairs, is a cartoonist and designer. When not engaged in writing notes to Secretary Lansing he is busy with his pencil. As you enter his office you will observe a large clean blotter on his desk, and this, as he talks, he gradually covers with sketches. His servant brings him a new blotter for every visitor."

Willing to Change.

"There is a very excellent reason why a girl shouldn't smoke."

"What?" she demanded.

"Makes her less agreeable to kiss."

"Well, I'll wait till somebody wants to kiss me," she said, "when they do I'll give up cigars—and take to a pipe."—Woman's Home Companion.

For Cash.

"The Clymers are determined to get into society, no matter how much it costs."

"What have they done now?"

"Last year they bought a coat of arms and a family tree for themselves, and now they're trying to buy a pedigree for their dog."

Bacon—Your dog?

Egbert—No, my wife's.

Steady Egg Market Looked For.

Portland—The egg market has settled at the 18-cent basis, where it will probably remain during the rest of the storage season. It is expected, with warmer weather at hand, that receipts will increase fast, but this is not likely to cause any difference in the market, as speculators are prepared to take all that come in at this price.

The following notice to egg shippers has been issued by a leading local buyer:

"To facilitate the rapid transaction of business during the egg-storing season, we have decided to suspend the established rule for grading eggs during the months of March, April and May, 1916, and substitute therefor the following simple and, we believe, entirely just method of buying eggs at, as it is commonly called, 'case count.' Prices quoted will be for fresh unwashed hens' eggs as brought to market by the producer (not culled or skimmed) and to weigh in regular 30-dozen standard No. 2 egg cases not less than 54 pounds. Such eggs shall be known and designated as 'fresh current receipts.' It is further understood that 'fresh current receipts' shall be accepted as good delivery if they do not show to exceed two dozen dirties and cracks per case of 30 eggs."

Asparagus Higher; Rhubarb Lower.

Portland—Asparagus was firmer Tuesday in response to higher prices in California, and the local market was advanced to 10 and 15 cents. California rhubarb was easier at $1.65 and $2 per box, according to grade. Another shipment of Oregon cauliflower arrived and it was held firm at $1.35 and $1.50 per dozen.

There has been an advance in oranges in California and higher prices are looked for on the street in the near future. A single car of bananas arrived in Portland Tuesday.

London Wool Sales Now Over.

London—The wool auction sales closed Monday with offerings of 8600 bales. The selection was good and it was readily absorbed at firm prices.

The feature of the series was the recent recovery in most grades in anticipation of further government orders. The usual American demand was lacking, through difficulty in getting licenses. Compared with the last auctions, fine merino and cross-breeds closed unchanged, while other grades 5 to 10 per cent lower. Eighty-seven thousand bales were sold.

Good Offers for Klamath Wool.

Klamath Falls, Or.—George McGinnis, a wool buyer from Red Bluff, Cal., who buys wool in this county every year, was in town recently looking after business interests. He is offering 22 cents a pound for coarse wool for spring deliveries. Sheepmen hereabouts view the wool outlook with as much pleasure as last season.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it."

Acute Hearing.

A number of candidates for the police force were being questioned by a doctor the other day, and a pretty stiff examination it was, too. At length it came to testing the men's sense of hearing, and said the examiner:

"Do you hear it tick?"

"Certainly; quite plainly."

"Stand further back."

Candidate retires three paces.

"Do you hear it now?"

"Yes."

Proof In Leanness.

There was once an old Garrabost crofter who, when giving evidence before the crofters' commission, admitted that while he was the owner of three cows, "the beasts were as thin as Pharaoh's lean kine."

The chairman, thinking to corner old Kenneth, asked him to say how lean Pharaoh's kine were.

Even a 17th-century divine would have wanted a day or two to think it over. But Kenneth answered at once.

"They were, sir, so lean that they could only be seen in a dream."

HOSTETTER'S Stomach Bitters

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson's patience has reached the point of exhaustion in connection with the destruction of passenger-carrying vessels in the European war zone. He is gathering all the facts in relation to the sinking of the Sussex. When these are in his possession he will decide whether to advise congress that a situation has arisen which necessitates a rupture of diplomatic negotiations with Germany.

So far as the state department has been advised the circumstances thus far developed:

First—That the quartermaster of the Sussex saw the torpedo coming and sheered away in the hope of escaping.

Second—That the three American passengers swear they distinctly saw the wake of the torpedo.

Third—That a bronze fragment was found on board the Sussex which a French officer says was a part of a German torpedo.

Lieutenant Smith, the American naval attache in Paris, has been directed to examine the fragment. If his opinion should coincide with that of the French officer President Wilson will conclude that the circumstantial evidence is sufficient for action.

The German embassy does not believe that a German submarine was responsible for this catastrophe. It is pointed out that there was no military advantage to be gained by the sinking of the Sussex. In case of the improbable, however, it is declared positively that the German government will disavow the act of the submarine commander, punish him, offer reparation and satisfy the American government that the outrage was in direct violation of the instructions issued by the German admiralty.

But the president is at the point where such steps are of no consequence. The fact is that Germany gave explicit assurances that passenger ships would not be torpedoed without warning, nor sunk; until passengers and crew had had an opportunity to escape. If Germany should deny that any of her submarines committed the outrage, which is regarded as extremely probable, the administration will have to rely upon circumstantial evidence. Such evidence, it is pointed out, is stronger than a denial.

The administration knows further that no English submarines were operating in the channel and it counts as impossible the suggestion that one of these vessels fired the fatal torpedo. In the first place the British government would hardly jeopardize the lives of its own subjects as well as those of its ally. Again the British government does not use the bronze torpedoes employed by the Germans. Nor could Germany shift the blame to one of her allies—Austro-Hungary or Bulgaria. Neither of these powers has submarines in the Atlantic.

SINKING OF SUSSEX TO BE PROBED; PRESIDENT MAY ASK OPEN RUPTURE

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson's patience has reached the point of exhaustion in connection with the destruction of passenger-carrying vessels in the European war zone. Delegates Talk Preparedness; Gag Order Comes Too Late

Spokane, Wash.—Shortly after the Northwest preparedness conference began here Tuesday a telegram was received from the war department at Washington instructing army officers not to take part in the conference. The telegram was received too late to affect the appearance of Lieutenant Colonel David J. Baker, Jr., of Vancouver Barracks, who spoke on the necessity of adequate protection for the northern Pacific states.

Preparedness questions affecting the Pacific Northwest from the viewpoint of military and naval officers featured the addresses despite the telegram from the war department. Under the circumstances pains were taken by the officers to say nothing that could be construed as having a political effect, or bearing on the measures now before congress.

Delegates were present from Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. The conference elected N. W. Durham, of Spokane, chairman; Frank W. Hammond, of Seattle, secretary, and P. N. Bernard, of Kalispell, Mont., assistant secretary.

Colonel Baker was not in uniform, and in the preamble of his address referred to the fact that he spoke only as a private citizen. In speaking of the Japanese question, Colonel Baker said:

"I think there is danger of trouble with Japan through the ignorance, arrogance and narrowness of our own people on this coast who lack knowledge of the Japanese and therefore misunderstand and misjudge them."

Wilhelm Honors Sultan.

Berlin, (By wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—The semi-official Overseas News agency has received advices from Constantinople confirming reports that Field Marshal von Mackensen had reached that city on a mission, given him by Emperor William, to present to the Sultan the Field Marshal's baton which the emperor had bestowed upon the Turkish ruler. The dispatch describes the Field Marshal's reception as most enthusiastic.

Paper Cost is Serious.

Washington, D. C.—A resolution for an investigation of the news print paper situation by the department of Commerce was introduced in the house by Representative Copley. Much of the supply of raw material for print paper that came from Germany, was cut off by the war. Other material is being shipped from this country to Europe for use in the manufacture of munitions. According to Mr. Copley the price of paper has advanced so far that the lives of many small newspapers are threatened.
