Minerals Sensitive to Light.

The element selenium has long attracted attention because of the pecullar effect light exerts on its electrical conductivity. Scientists have now discovered that copper oxide has properties similar to selenium, says Popular Mechanics. Another mineral recently put in the same class is stibulte, an antimony mineral. Other materials, such as sulphar, shellac, paraffin and anthracene, a coal tar product, will also exhibit odd conductivity effects under the influence of light, but to a lesser degree.
