Strange Storehouses.

In the old birds' nest that are placed near the ground in shrubs and small trees close to hazelnut bushes and bittersweet vines one will often find a handful of hazelnuts or bittersweet berries. They were put there by the white footed mice and the meadow mice, which visit these storehouses regularly. Very often a white footed mouse will cover a bird's nest with fine dried grass and inner bark and make a nest for itself. —New York Tribune.

Concentration.

"My daughter," says the first mother proudly, "is the most popular girl in town. Why, we counted them up one day, and she has no less than fifty-three gentlemen admirers. Isn't that splendid! It must seem so very different to have a daughter like your Irene, who has but the one suitor."

"Yes," crisply retorts the other mother, "but I would beg you to remember that my daughter has landed her one beau, while your daughter is wondering which of the fifty-three is coming to the point."

Needed No Hints.

A man from the backwoods visited New York for the first time and went into a restaurant to have his dinner. All went well until the waiter brought him a napkin. The eyes of the backwoodsman flamed, and, pulling a six shooter from his hip pocket, he told the waiter his mind. "You take that blamed thing away at once," he said evenly. "I reckon I know when to use a handkerchief without having them darned hints thrown out." —Detroit Free Press.
