Six-Page Premium List Has Been Prepared And Is Now In The Hands of The Children

3RD. ANNUAL SCHOOL FAIR

Complete List Will Be Found on Another Page of The Mail

The date for the Stayton Industrial School Fair is drawing near, and the premium lists are out, a copy of which will be found on an inside page of the Mail.

If you do not get a list, preserve the paper and try and get the children to bring an exhibit to Stayton's third annual event.

The committees promise a much greater variety of exhibits this year, and with several good addresses by public men, together with a ball game between the Stayton high school and some other school there will be plenty doing all the time.

The fair will be held in the old building this year, and it is expected that the attendance will be much greater than last year. Try and make your arrangements so that there will be time to attend this annual event.

The dates are Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7.

SECURES ANOTHER STATE CONTRACT

The Wilbur Woolen Mills Co. of this city secured the contract for 1000 blankets for the state institutions against several other sharp competitive bids.

The contract was not awarded to the lowest bidder, but quality was taken into consideration, hence the securing of it to the Stayton company, whose products are of the very best.

The bride wore a white pussy-willow taffeta with a net overdrape, trimmed with pearl beads. Her attendants were the Misses Rose Susbauer and Angeline Kintz. Miss Susbauer wore a Nile-green silk and Miss Kintz was attired in light blue silk. The groom was attended by Dan Kintz and Jos. Susbauer Jr.

A wedding banquet was held at the home of the bride's parents at noon, and was attended by many relatives and friends.

The young couple will live on the Jos. Susbauer farm near Sublimity. The Mail joins with their many friends in wishing them many prosperous years of health and happiness.

MAXWELL TAKES CLUTCH SILENTLY

Sudden taking hold of the clutch of an automobile, that frequent and exasperating annoyance in the operation of the ordinary machine which all but precipitates the passengers from the car and works considerable damage to the motor car in general, is said to have been completely eliminated in the Maxwell through a unique construction of the Maxwell clutch.

Engineers and expert automobile builders for many years have sought a solution of this problem, the same being the subject of painstaking investigation and experimentation. To a lesser degree it is said this damaging annoyance in the driving of a motor car has been eliminated and it is stated that the Maxwell Motor Company has been eminently successful in completely doing away with even the possibilities of a sudden gripping clutch.

In order to obtain this desirable feature in automobile construction, the Maxwell clutch assembly housing has been so constructed that the clutch is continually subjected to an oil bath. When operating the clutch, in making gear changes, the clutch falls back into position in such a manner that the film of oil which gathers on the clutch lining is gradually, but rapidly squeezed from the lining, the clutch at the same time taking a firmer and firmer hold. The operation is automatic, but absolutely sure, and without jar to the car.

The speed with which it is accomplished depends largely upon the speed at which the car is traveling and the dexterity of the driver in making gear changes.

It is stated by the best posted authorities that a rough operating clutch does an immeasurable amount of damage to a car in a short period of time, producing quickly rear axle trouble, motor trouble and finally laying up the car. A smooth, evenly operating clutch is, therefore, regarded as being highly essential to a long, useful life of an automobile, hence, the Maxwell builders make an especial point of this feature of that machine.

GERTRUDE O'BRIEN IN "HIS WIFE."

At twenty-one to be recognized as one of screenland's most popular and talented young players, in the envious record held by Miss Geraldine O'Brien, the featured player in "His wife," a five part Mutual Masterpicture screened at the Thanhouser studio.

Miss O'Brien has been in picture work but little more than two years. Nevertheless, in that short time she has risen to the very pinnacle of her profession and today is generally conceded one of the real stars of the silent drama.

"To what do you attribute your success," Miss O'Brien was recently asked by a friend who visited her at the Thanhouser studios in New Rochelle.

"To many things," replied the young star. First of all, I must say that luck has much to do with it. Until three years ago I had no idea whatever of taking up a career in the studios. One of the most heart stirring scenes ever screened is presented in His Wife, with Miss O'Brien in the leading role, which comes to the Star Theatre Saturday night. Be sure and see it.

THE HIGH SCHOOL IS INCREASING RAPIDLY

Teachers' Training Course Has Been Added For Benefit of Those Who Wish to Teach

WILL HELP APPLICANTS

Several Have Already Enrolled in The New Course

The second week of school shows a decided increase over the preceding week in attendance, especially in the high. This department gained twenty new students, giving an enrollment in the high school of 62 pupils. This number, no doubt, will be increased to seventy or seventy-five.

A Teachers' Training Course has just been made a part of the high school course—a very important addition. Under the law, any senior student taking this course and completing it, will be given a one year's state certificate, which will entitle them to teach in any of the grade schools in Oregon. This certificate may be renewed for one year, if the holder has been successful in teaching.

We consider this of much importance as the law now requires all applicants for a certificate, to take a course in Teacher's Training. This, more than any other thing else, will raise the standard of the Stayton Schools.
