BIG FLAG RAISING

Next Saturday June 16th Will be the Greatest Day in the History of Stayton

Street Parade, Band Music, Singing and Speeches Will be Some of the Features of the Patriotic Celebration

The greatest event in the history of Stayton will take place next Saturday afternoon June 16 when the mammoth flag which has been purchased by popular subscription will be raised to the top of a pole nearly 100 feet tall. This will be a patriotic celebration far surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted here, in which not only Stayton but the entire country surrounding our city will participate. An elaborate program suitable to the occasion is being prepared with all care and thoroughness of the men in charge and that the event will be a grand success goes without saying. Our patriotism should be shown on this occasion if we have never demonstrated it before.

Hon. Charles Galloway of Salem will be the speaker of the afternoon, he is one of the ablest orators of our state and he is alive to the subject and will deliver an address that every American will be glad he heard.

There will be a grand street parade in which the Grand Army city officials, Red Cross, 48 children, the Honor Guard and as many citizens as wish will participate. The parade will form at the school house about 2 o'clock and march through town headed by the band to the speakers stand. The program will be interspersed with singing and band music.

This event will mark an epoch in the history of Stayton and teach a lesson in patriotism that will leave a lasting impression on the minds of all who witness the stirring events of that afternoon.

War Census News

Portland, Or., June 12.—The period of grace for men of military age who failed for any reason to register on War Census Day, is ended.

From now on, every slacker is to be hunted down without mercy. There will be no more leniency.

Governor Withycombe has received official instructions from the Provost Marshal General, at Washington, D. C., that the most vigorous enforcement of the penal clause of the law will be required against all who have not registered.

It is announced that the quota of men to be drafted into the military service from each state will be based on previous census estimates, not on the actual registration figures, which in Oregon were slightly lower than the estimate. Inasmuch as the men to be called are to be chosen by lot, the failure to register of any man who should have done so increases the chances against every other man who did his duty and registered.

For this reason, particularly, and also as a patriotic duty, every one of the 62,840 men who registered in Oregon is asked to help in the drive to round up the shirkers.

Already the sheriffs, police officers and precinct registrars have been directed by the Adjutant General to report all suspicious cases. But now the press, and in response to official orders from Washington, all men who have registered are asked to aid in this anti-slacker campaign.

Of course, there may be a few who can present legitimate excuses for not having registered. But they will have to present them in court. The time for leniency is passed, and imprisonment faces those who tried to evade their duty to their country.

Aumsville Resident Passes Away

Elizabeth Dorothy Bullock was born in Grafton New Hampshire June 4, 1838. When she was five years old she removed with her parents to Fall River, Mass., where in 1856 she was united in marriage to Avery Winslow. In the Fall of 1857 they moved to Ottawa Illinois. In the year 1874 they removed to Ionia Kansas where they lived sixteen years.

In 1890 the family went to Olympia Wash., for a few months and from there removed to Aumsville, Oregon where they have made their home since that time. Mrs. Winslow has been a member of the Baptist church for fifty years.

She leaves a daughter and two sons, Elizabeth M. Pound of Salem, Charles A. of Olympia Wash., and William K. of Aumsville. Three children preceeded her, Hattie, who died in infancy Alta D. Ross, who died in Mt. Angel in 1910 and Jessie B. Winslow who passed away two weeks ago in Olympia, Wash. Besides these there sixteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren who will miss her cheering smiles and comforting words.

During the later years of her life her strength did not permit to activeness but many friends did not forget to visit her often and send her many cheering messages.

A large number of relatives and friends were present at the funeral which was held at the home at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday conducted by Rev. Lockhart of Stayton. Interment in Lone Oak Cemetery.

Two Killed When Train Runs Away

Ben Rockwell, age 28, and W. H. Rambo, 52, were killed Saturday morning at Mill City when a logging train got away from the train crew as they were coming out of the woods with a load of logs. The train was half way down the hill at the switchback when the train stopped to turn the engine to make the rest of the way down. As the train started the air brakes failed to work and the train gained speed down hill. After reversing the eccentric and setting the brakes, the engineer jumped, followed by the fireman.

Rockwell, who was the conductor in charge of the train, was on a load at the front of the train and started to run back over the loaded cars. But the momentum was becoming too great and one of the loads was thrown from the car, throwing Rockwell with it and killing him instantly.

Rambo was in the caboose which was next to the engine at the front of the train and he jumped when a terrific speed was reached. His neck was broken. There were six women in the caboose, none of whom were injured.

The rest of the train crashed down the hill, throwing off one load of logs after another until the engine and caboose were free from the other cars. With the load lightened and the brakes set and the engine reversed, the train finally came to a stop.

Mr. Rambo is survived by a wife whom he married nine months ago, two sisters in Vancouver, Wash., Miss Mattie Rambo and Mrs. Emmingham, and two half brothers. He went to Mill City with his father about 1883 and lived there practically the rest of his life. He was a

Mr. Rockwell lived most of his life in and near Mill City. He is survived by a wife and four children and his parents. He was buried at Fox Valley cemetery Sunday.

"The World and the Woman"

The feature at the Star Theatre Sunday, is the Pathe Gold Rooster Play "The World and the Woman," produced by Thalhouser, with Jeanne Eagles as the star.

Beautiful Miss Eagles, remembered for her work opposite Arnold Daly in "The House of Fear," is splendid. Her art lends the proper touch to a delicate and difficult role, and the supporting cast is a fine one.

It is an unusual, absorbing study of the soul of a woman of the streets. The story grips from the start, and it will sound a responsive note in your heart that will make you feel a new sympathy for those less fortunate than yourself who must win a battle for existence at any cost.

A tipsy man's wager brings the girl as a servant to the mountain bungalow of a Broadway spendthrift. There in the clean air, the trees and flowers bring her to realization that there is a God. With the return of self respect she is given a wonderful power of understanding and sympathy. Her faith leads to faith in others, and she comes to be regarded as almost an angel. Then the man reveals what she has been.

How will it end? Can she again climb up the social ladder? You will want her to with all your heart. That's why this picture beats any ten sermons. It holds your attention from beginning to end, but you do not feel that you have been a preacher's target.

The character of Philip Lonergan's stories is that they are always built around a really big idea. The big theme of "The World and the Woman" is that if one believes, himself, he can not only lift himself from the mire, but allay the suffering of others.

If you say "I can't do it," the chances are you won't, whereas if you say "I can and I will do it," no matter what the thing is you will succeed. You don't have to be a Christian Scientist to realize this. The picture will appeal to every man, woman and child who consciously realizes the power of the mind.

Here is an extract from a letter written to Mr. Lonergan by Harryot Holt Dey, President of the Woman's Press Club of New York and a prominent Christian Scientist, who saw the picture at a private showing:

"The memory of 'The World and the Woman' clings to me constantly. I am sure you do not fully realize the strength of the work you have done."

It is a deeply interesting story well acted, well produced and well directed. It will hold the attention of everybody, no matter of what belief.
