An Aged Pioneer of Marion County Dies

A quintette of brothers, who are Oregon pioneers, was broken Sunday with the death of Philip Glover, who passed away at his home near Sublimity at the age of 88 years.

Besides the widow, whose maiden name was Delilah Edmunson, the following children survive: Mrs. Amelia Conick of Klipsan Beach, Wash.; Henry and John Glover, Grandview; Arthur, Salem George, Sublimity; Mrs. Ellen Lambert, Stayton and Frank Glover, Dallas. A daughter, Mrs. Louisa J. Loomis, passed away six years ago.

He settled with his parents on a donation claim in the lower Waldo hills near Macleay, Or., and his many years, spanning a dozen years less than a century, have largely been spent in Oregon. His life has bridged the period of American history from Andrew Jackson's first inauguration as president on March 4, 1829, to the time the United States became involved in the greatest war in all history.

Besides his widow, his only mate through the term of years, and his family, he is survived by four brothers, Samuel, aged 86 and James Nettle, aged 80, both of whom reside at Spokane, Wash.; Charles Peyton, age 77, of Portland, and John, 72 of British Columbia, and brothers William and George, and two sisters Louisa, wife of Wm. Culver, and Mariah, wife of Jack Graves, are deceased.

Philip was a direct descendent of a very hardy family of American pioneers. His grandfather, Philip Glover, came to America from England in colonial times, the exact date not being known. His own father, Philip Glover, was born in St. Charles county, Maryland in 1795, and at the age of 17 years served with the Maryland troops in our second war with Great Britain 1812-14. Philip was the oldest one of a large family and occupied a responsible position in his father's trip across the plains to Oregon in 1849 and assisted in carving a home out of the wilderness. He took up his donation land claim in 1851, at which place he lived until his death. He was the first mail carrier from Oregon City to Sublimity. He owned one of the first horse power machines in these parts; also the first grist mill. A great lover of horses, he always kept a number of fine bred horses on his farm. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and the Grange and was a lifelong democrat. He and Mrs. Glover had been married past 63 years.

The funeral was held Tuesday at the home, conducted by Rev. Elliott, and interment was made in the near-by cemetery. The choir was composed of Mrs. J. M. Ringo, Mrs. Dr. Korinek, Dr. Beauchamp and Stanley A. Starr, with Mrs. C. E. Taylor, organist. The pall-bearers were W. H. Downing, J. T. Hunt, Henry Benson, Joseph Breitenstein, H. C. Downing and Joseph Koenick.

The tribute of flowers was extensive and beautiful. The funeral was perhaps the most largely attended of any ever held in eastern Marion county, more than sixty automobiles being counted at the cemetery, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Friends and acquaintances were present from long distances to pay their last sad respects to this well known and worthy pioneer.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire thank the people for their assistance during the illness and burial of our husband and father; also for the many beautiful floral tributes. Our thanks are also due the singers for their excellent music. To all who so kindly extended their aid and sympathy we return our heartfelt thanks, and trust that in their hour of sorrow God will bless them with like kind friends to give them aid and sympathy. Mrs. Philip Glover and Family.

Business vs. Politics

It is still an open question whether the American people care more about politics than they do about business and industries.

Partisan politics appeals to many people, and a few make money out of it, but the multitude must depend on payrolls and business under any administration.

Whether one man is elected to an office or another is not of as much consequence to the average citizen as the founder of a new industry or building a new railroad.

Radical advocates of collectivism or individualism are willing to sacrifice all else to carry their particular theory into effect, but prosperity depends on use of both systems.

Public ownership and private capital are not antagonistic, only when used to destroy each other and then the loss falls on the whole community and hinders progress.

The one-idea theorist on any line believes his nostrum will cure all the troubles of city, state or nation, but he is not a safe person to follow in any direction.

Industry, payrolls, investments improvements still mean a chance for the average man to succeed in life, while political activity enriches few and taxes everybody.

Portland—Hammond Lumber Co. plans to purchase 14,000 acres of timber land in Clatsop county for $4,000,000.

Expanding Industrial Function

Colorado has a Labor Commissioner with four bureaus, Statistic, Factory Inspection, Employment Agencies, Public and Private.

In addition there is a bureau of Mines, Coal Mine Inspector, and Steam Boiler inspector, all have deputies and other employees.

There is also a Workingmen's Compensation commission and these industrial departments all put together cost the taxpayers $200,000.

That much is spent annually on industrial regulations and yet the industrial conditions in Colorado have been the worst of any state.

The last legislature passed a bill to put all these industrial regulatory functions under one industrial commission.

The bill failed to provide one head for new Commission and so the parasitical functionaries have all hung onto their jobs.

A new effort will be made in the legislature this winter to consolidate these many boards and get a single head and reduce overhead.

That is what should be done in every state and not only protect the taxpayer but industries against political agitators.

If the industrial functions of the state could be made really constructive nothing would help the development of the state so much.

But all the above industrial boards and functioning is usually direct for political effect to catch union vote.

Those holding state industrial positions seem to think they owe nothing to the taxpayer and the rest of the citizenship.

Enjoyable Outing

The Columbia Highway is proving quite an attraction to Stayton people as a good sized party left here last Saturday evening making the trip to Portland that night, visiting the Highway Sunday going as far as Cascade Locks also taking in Bonneville where the fish hatcheries are located, returning to their homes Sunday evening.

They report a splendid trip and a good time. Those making the trip were: J. W. Mayo and family, J. M. Ringo and wife, G. F. Korinek and wife, Pete Graber, wife and son, Mrs. Ringo's sister Miss Ermine Bushnell of Salem, Grant Murphy, wife and baby, Jake Spaniol, wife and son and Roy Burson.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs install

A large crowd of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs gathered at the Odd Fellows hall Tuesday evening to participate in the joint installation of the officers of both orders for the current six months.

The Rebekahs installed their officers first who were: Mrs. Ben Schaefer P.N.G. Miss Ella Williams, N. G.; Mesdames Horree Lilly, V. G.; V. Dare Sloper, Secy.; C. E. Taylor, Treas.; W. H. Hobson, R. S. N. G.; J. R. Gardner, L. S. N. G.; J. M. Ringo, R. S. V. G.; G. C. Watson, L. S. V. G.; Archie Caspel, Warden; Carrie Palmer, Conductor; V. A. Goode, Inside guardian; J. E. Sloper, Chaplain; and Miss Verda Hamman Outside guardian. At the conclusion of the Rebekah installation the Odd Fellows went into session and installed the following officers:

W. A. Weddle, P. N. G.; Ben Schaefer N. G.; G. F. Korinek, V. G.; W. H. Hobson; Secy.: J. W. Mayo, Treas.; J. R. Gardner, R. S. N. G.; J. M. Ringo, L. S. N. G.; Wayne Ashby, R. S. V. G.; Conrad Niebert, L. S. V. G.; V. Dare Sloper, Warden. A. S. Panoast, Con.; C. E. Daugherty chaplain; Stanley A. Starr, R. S. S. Archie Caspel, L. S. S.; C. E. Taylor; Inside guardian: H. Lilly Outside guardian.

At the last session of the Grand Lodge W. A. Weddle was appointed Deputy District Grand Marshall and was the installing officer for the Odd Fellows while Mrs. Dr. Beauchamp was the installing officer for the Rebekah after the business in hand was completed short talks were made by several present, and the meeting dismissed.

The partners for supper were selected and as fast as chosen the couple wended their way to the dining room where all were served to ice cream and cookies, after this repast games were indulged in until a late hour.

The committee having the entertainment in charge was composed of Mesdames Caspel, Goode and Taylor who deserve the thanks of all present for the unique form of selecting partners and entertainment furnished.

The following appeared in the Jeffers Review: "Anyone who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig a grave. A man that curses the town furnishes the casket. The man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business to give to city affairs is making the shroud. The man who does not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is howling hard times all the time preaches the funeral sermon and sings the doxology, and thus the town lies buried from all sorrow and care."

Conservationists Helping Monopolists

Some oily politicians of the west want to keep the votes of the men engaged in development of the oil industry and also keep in with the conservationists of the east.

Secretary Lane, who is a western man, and the California delegation want the leasing bill passed to give relief to the oil operators held up by the Taft withdrawal order.

Not only is oil production restricted by the opposition of the navy department, but in the preparedness crisis, the same withdrawal policies lock up the lands containing potash and phosphates.

Six million acres oil lands are withdrawn that no oil wells can be bored upon, to please the Gifford Pinchote and their associated conservationists who do not believe in American initiative.

Crude oil has gone so high that it is no longer available for road building and there is talk of gasoline going to a dollar a gallon which would not be possible if oil production proceeded fairly and without government interference.

Not only are oil products restricted and soaring under abnormal demands but on the six million acres withdrawn at the dictation of the conservationists, there are ammunition supplies needed for the preparedness program.

All these resources which form the basis of national defence would be developed by private initiative and American enterprise if Congress would act on the leasing bill, even if the government adhere to its naval reserve policy.

Gasoline is invaluable to the army and navy and so is the supply of potash for ammunition plants, to say nothing of phosphates for fertilizers contained in the areas withdrawn, and which the government is doing nothing to develop.
