Salem—State Highway board

paving bids.

The one industry responsible for a large share of the prosperity of the west is shipbuilding.
The war has shown the impossibility of operating an American merchant marine under present laws and it is to be hoped that the drawbacks will be eliminated so that this industry may live after the war conditions cease.

Irving to have a large farmers warehouse.

Port of Coos Bay to erect 80 foot drawbridge at Coos City.

Eugene—Springfield bridge to be rebuilt.

Legal department refuses to pay counties back taxes due on opening lands for settlement.

Salem—Plans drawn for large

Portland—Old O. W. R. & N.
Co., boatyards to build 20 ships.

Glendale gets a $5000 shingle mill.

Eugene lets contract for paving and larger water mains.

Wheeler—Nehalem cannery overhauled and will operate on Salmon.

No more forcible argument to show the folly of conservation policies which prevent the development of our wonderful western waterpowers than the present shortage of coal and fuel oil.
Left unrestricted capital always develops a country in advance of its needs. It is a crime against the nation now at war to waste its wood, oil and coal for fuel when the white coal of the unused water powers are wasting to the sea.

A shipment of four pure-bred O. I. C. swine was received by H. E. Bennett this week from the L. B. Silver Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, originators of the O. I. C.s and largest swine breeders in the country. Just now these white hogs are immen-sely popular among the hog raisers of the East and South, their record for extraordinary size and prolificacy, and disease resisting qualities particularly recommending them, and breeders report six months behind orders for some time. These are probably the first pure-bred O. I. C.s to be brought to this vicinity, and Mr. Bennett is taking much pride in introducing them here.

What Makes a Good Road.

Everybody agrees that the surface of a road must be oval in its configuration, says Farm and Fireside, but not all understand that this oval ought to be as flat as the character of the road material and the lay of the land will permit. With brick or concrete construction the oval may be very flat, because the traffic makes no ruts to carry the water lengthwise of the road, nor does the pavement soften and develop de-pressions when kept in contact with water. But broken stone (water bound macadam), being susceptible to penetration by water and subject to great damage if frozen while soaked, must be given a higher oval, and for gravel roads a still steeper pitch is demanded.

As for earth roads, the steepness must be governed by the combined influence of a number of factors. Perhaps the leading factor is the quality of the earth in each particular case.
And next might be placed the presence or absence of "seeps" or "spouts," while another of these vital factors would be the longitudinal pitch of the highway.

Pocahontas and Mrs. Wilson.
It was on the 21st of March, old style, in 1617, that Pocahontas, loveliest and most celebrated of all Indian women, died in England, on the eve of her projected return to her native land.
The climate of England did not agree with Pocahontas, and she was already in a state of decline when she preceded to Gravesend with her husband, John Rolfe, and her infant son, Thomas, purposing to take passage on a ship bound for America. She had no sooner reached Gravesend than she was stricken down with smallpox, to which she soon succumbed.

Thomas Rolfe, the son of Pocahontas, had a daughter named Jane, who, in 1675, married Robert Bolling, a young Englishman who had settled in Virginia. Jane had one son, and he in turn was the parent of one son and five daughters. This son's great-grandson was William Holcomb Bolling, the father of Mrs. Woodrow Willson.—New York World.
