China Represented at Ince Studio

To meet a supposed demand for peanuts, candies and other goodies, a good-natured old Chinaman has become part of the working staff at the Ince studios at Los Angeles. He arrived without invitation, but soon became a recognized part of the institution, wandering about the "lot" and casting his celestial gaze on the stars and "extras" alike in an incurious way.

He is not well versed in the technique of making motion pictures, and recently was the source of considerable embarrassment to director Victor L. Schertzinger, who was filming a scene from "His Mother's Boy" under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, starring Charles Ray.

The story called for a church scene. It was to be a typical New England village church and its pews were crowded with extras carefully selected and dressed as typical New England "types." Just as Mr. Schertzinger, after a long and arduous rehearsal, had everything to his liking, and the cameraman was "shooting," the doors of the sacred edifice opened and the almond eyed "Chink" walked up the aisle, offering fresh peanuts to the crowd! Needless to say, the scene was retaken—but China was not represented. "His Mother's Boy" will be shown at the Star Theatre on Saturday July 20.

Y. M. C. A. in Need of Men

Men over draft age, of good moral character and who know how to teach soldiers recreational games, can serve their country through enlistment for service overseas in the Y. M. C. A. They can be sent to France almost immediately. The call for recreational directors, men who understand athletics is greater now than at any time.

Dr. George J. Fisher, head of the physical department of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. is in the west and will meet men who desire to get into this service at a meeting to be held in San Francisco, July 19.

"Physical activities are now being conducted in terms of international fellowship," said Dr. Fisher. "It is a strange fact that close to seventy per cent of the men in the American army do not know the simplest sports. There are no great national games in France and Italy but the French and Italian soldiers readily take to American games. Athletic activity in Allied armies is making for morale. I met officers in Europe who told me that they had not seen their troops smile in two years, until they engaged in athletics. The need for physical directors and recreational directors was never greater."

Frank A. Jackson, associate secretary to F. A. McCari, head of the National War Work Council in the Western department, announces that 250 men must be secured in the western states each month for Y. M. C. A. service overseas. The opportunity for men to be of service to their country and the soldiers is open to all men over draft age who possess qualifications fitting them to be Y. M. C. A. secretaries. It is also announced that 4000 men must be secured for Y. M. C. A. overseas service before September 1.
