A couple of weeks ago someone without the fear of the devil and the faraway look of the Lord made the assertion that they could haul all the freight that came to Stayton via West Stayton with a mule team. Our readers will remember that we called them for the assertion, in that it was false.

A visit to West Stayton this week revealed the fact that there has been 1,098,010 pounds of freight in car load lots and 119,093 pounds of miscellaneous freight handled at West Stayton during the month of April, 1919, and 183,970 pounds of local freight were shipped out from this point.

Now, Mr. Wise Guy, haul this with your mule team will you?

FRUIT GROWING INDUSTRY

From apples and pears to cherries and small fruits, the fruit growing industry has become the money-making small tract proposition.

From every section that can grow fruit from the Canadian line to Mexico come published stories of community prosperity.

The community that has a cannery for fruits and vegetables is indeed a favored one and more and more are the by products utilized.

From the fruit drier to the evaporator on a large scale, so the industry goes from the manufacturer of fruit juices to making jelly and preserves.

The canning industry bids fair to become a ranking one with dairying and counting fish canneries is not third or fourth in cash turnover.

Every community can profitably interest itself in a campaign to produce more small fruits and vegetables even if the raw material is shipped.

Cutting up the ranches into small holdings, the one-horse, one-family production program, is holding its own in spite of many bad years.

On top of this is the development of the fruit juice industry which is made profitable by the increasing market for non-alcoholic beverages.

There is indeed an era of prosperity ahead of the small fruit and vegetable production sections and the industries connected with them.

DIRECTION FOR USING FERTILIZER GIVEN

Garden makers are often puzzled as to the amount of fertilizer needed for their small plots, because the usual directions give only amount per acre. The following table shows approximately the proper proportions:

One hundred pounds per acre equals one pound for a plot 10x13 feet.

Two hundred pounds per acre equals one pound for a plot 10x22 feet.

Three hundred pounds per acre equals one pound for a plot 10x14 feet.

Four hundred pounds per acre equals one pound for a plot 10x11 feet.

Five hundred pounds per acre equals one pound for a plot 10x9 feet.

There is no question but what barnyard manure assists the mechanical action of the ground, this evidently largely owing to a preponderance of vegetable matter. Commercial fertilizer, however, being largely animal matter does not contain the vegetable matter which the barnyard manure does. This, however, can be overcome if gardeners will grow cover crops. Spading or plowing this growth adds to the mechanical condition and humus content.

THE material of which these shirts are made is renowned for service and quality, as well as handsome appearance. These shirts are shown in spring patterns, and colorings featuring fine woven silk stripes in beautiful designs.

Some clothes wearers seem to feel that "style" means originality—and nothing else. But in our dictionary "style" means originality PLUS good taste. Many who strive for style succeed simply in achieving conspicuous oddity. You will never see that mistake made in the Salem Woolen Mills Store. Their large number of patrons and friends have found that BISHOP gives you more real value in style, quality and service than can be found elsewhere. Their close connection with their several large mills gives them tremendous buying advantages enjoyed by no one but themselves.
