

Bitter or Better Baking

A letter makes a great difference in a word. A word makes a great difference in baking powders.

If the little word "alum" appears on the label it may mean bitter baking.

If the word ROYAL stands out bold and strong, it surely means BETTER baking.

This is only one reason why it pays to use

HOUSE'S INFLUENCE ON WILSON

Statesmen and laymen have speculated much upon the qualities possessed by Col. Edward M. House which give him an influence over President Wilson not possessed by any other individual—not even by any member of his cabinet.

Every now and then something comes from Paris that tends to throw light on this mystery. For example, it is now said that the American body of experts at the peace conference is probably the most notable in attendance and that Colonel House is to be thanked for its organization.

It is also said that Colonel House's great influence with the president is unquestionably due, primarily, to the fact that the president has found in the colonel a complement for his own mind.

The president's mind runs to principles—is inclined to shirk details. Relying greatly upon the power of his eloquence, he is inclined to be content with generalization. Colonel House's line of attack on difficult problems is exactly the opposite of that employed by the president.

Colonel House never made a speech in his life. He is unsentimental. He is influenced only by facts. He wants all the facts.
