The best evidence of a prosperous, thrifty and live town is the way its business men patronize the newspapers—by advertising. A stranger usually looks over the newspapers of a town before he buys goods, and the people who advertise are sure to meet him first. His order alone will pay for the advertisement.

J. P. Wilbur has large posters out announcing an auction sale of high class woolen goods, which will take place Saturday, Nov. 8th, in the J. R. Gardner store building. Mr. Wilbur has a nice line of woolen goods and this will be the chance you have been looking for for some time to lay in your supply of suitings, coatings, etc. The sale starts at one o'clock.

Eggs 75c per dozen at Klicker's.

Dr. Beaucamp returned from Seattle last Thursday where he went in response to a message stating that his mother, Mrs. Carrie Beaucamp, had been injured when an auto hit her. The doctor reports his mother suffering from a fractured hip bone and other minor bruises. Her many friends here hope for a speedy recovery.

The Mail was in error a couple of weeks ago when it stated that Mr. Halfman had purchased property in Stayton. The truth of the matter is, Mr. Halfman has been in our midst for some time—just loo'in around.

He finally found a place to his liking and closed a deal this week through George Smith, the Real Estate man, for the Peterson, 20 acre tract, near Sublimity.

Mr. Halfman will erect new buildings on the place and will set out berries and fruit trees in the spring.

Mrs. Halfman, who is an experienced Poultrist, will be a great help to her husband, as they expect to start a poultry farm on their new acquired tract.

Checking a Presumption.

"There is a rumor that you may be asked to assume leadership of your struggling country," ventured the trusted retailer.

"I have heard such a rumor," answered Wilhelm.

"Well, you may be a painter and a poet and a lot of other things. But there is a limit to human versatility. With your shabby record for truth and veracity, don't you ever try to pose as the George Washington or Germany."
