Alexandria Modern City.

Alexandria, founded by the world conqueror, Alexander the Great, is an Egyptian city that is eager to lose its connection with the far away past and become completely modernized. Fate favors this ambition, for the wonders that Cleopatra knew have been eaten by fire or swept away by the sea. Alexandria is a city of trade and fashion, dominated by prosperous Europeans too deeply absorbed in the stock exchange to be even vaguely interested in the romantic side of their city.

Except for a few visitors who have read a little history and are wildly inquisitive regarding Cleopatra's palace and Pompey's pillage, the ruins of Alexandria rest peacefully, unphotographed and unchipped by souvenir hunters. One thing against the popularity of Alexandria's ruins is their scantiness. For the most part, they consist of a few carved stones and some "sites."

Administrator's Notice of Hearing of Final Account.

Notice is hereby given that the final account of J. H. Osborn as Administrator of the estate of Nina Nichols, deceased, has been filed in the County Court of Marion County, State of Oregon, and that the 3rd day of July 1920 at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., has been duly appointed by such Court for the hearing of objections, to such final account and the settlement thereof, at which time any person interested in such estate may appear and file objections thereto in writing and contest the same.

Curious Fatigue Test.

A unique method has been discovered to measure just how tired one's body becomes after hours of work. A line is drawn across the forearm with a sharp point, not sharp enough to break the skin, but only to drive out the blood and leave a straight white line on the skin. An observer holding a stop watch measures the time it takes for the blood to rush back into the skin and the white line to fade. The exact number of seconds and fraction of a second is recorded. This test is repeated say at intervals of one hour all day until the working hours are over. When these readings are plotted on paper a curve is drawn which tells at a glance just how one's energy ebbs throughout the day. There is always a marked jump in the line after lunch hour.—Boys' Life.

The perfectly cut and brilliant diamond the world knows today is not very much more than 50 years old, says a writer in Popular Science. The ancient world knew little of diamonds. From the first Pharaoh to the last, through all the pageantry of 31 dynasties, diamonds were unknown in Egypt. From the dawn of history, Babylon remained unfamiliar with them for 40 centuries.

The conquest of Alexander across the Indus in 327 B. C. acquainted Greece vaguely with their existence. The patricians of Rome in the days of the early empire rarely owned them. Byzantine supremacy, the rise of Venice to maritime power, the Moorish conquest of Spain, brought only a trickle of diamonds into western Europe. A fashionable jewelry store in America today carries more diamonds in stock than were in all Europe when Columbus sailed from Palos.

Henry D. Morse of Boston, in the last century was the first to discover the balanced proportions that developed a diamond's highest reflective and refractive possibilities. Since brilliancy is the crowning glory of a diamond, he did not hesitate to sacrifice whatever weight was necessary to achieve it. Retaining the 58 facets of the earlier cutters, he found that a diamond is at its sharpest climax of brilliancy when the depth from table to culet is six-tenths of its diameter, and that a little more than two-thirds below. Cut in this style, a diamond not only flashes light from every polished facet surface, but seems alive with coruscating inner fires.

Morse's proportions are the rule of the world today, and they mark the final triumph of the art in the achievement of the perfect jewel.

GROUND UNDER HEAVY TAXES

People in Bible Times Completely at Mercy of Extortionate Extractors of Tribute.

People in the Bible times were taxed heavily. They were on a straight levy, not based on incomes or excess profits. Payment was compelled and no excuses made, nor were there any exemptions to married men or heads of families. Although there were no army or navy establishments and no airplane program, the people paid their assessments in both gold and silver.

King Solomon compelled the Canaanites who were left in the country to pay him tribute. The rebellion of Jeroboam on account of the heavy taxes levied by Solomon, afterward growing into the revolt of the Ten Tribes, was the most pretentious kick against the levy of the powers in Bible times. Jeroboam was at first compelled to take refuge in Egypt, and it was on account of the taxes and levies laid by Solomon that the Israelites said to Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, upon the latter's death:

"Thy father made our yokes grievous; now therefore make thou the grievous service of thy father and his heavy yokes which he put upon us lighter and we will serve thee."

When Caesar Augustus was in power and Quirinus was governor of Syria, after having just been elected for a third term because he had kept the Syrians out of war, the first named issued a proclamation signed by his secretary of state that the whole world should be taxed. And at the people went to their own city to be taxed. The later editions of the Bible speak of the act as the people being "enrolled."

An After-War Bride.

A returned soldier and his sweetheart called on a judge to marry them. The judge married them, and, apparently satisfied with his work, he said to Vic, "Salute the bride." For an instant the groom was flustered. Then he took two steps to the rear, came to a distinct halt, elicited his heels together and gave Mrs. Vic one of the "doughboys' finest." "Oh, well, I guess that will have to do," sighed the judge as he signed the license.—Argonaut.
