PROCLAMATION

Whereas, Many of the streets and alleys and much of the private property in the town of Stayton is in an unsightly and unsanitary condition caused by an accumulation of rubbish: and

Whereas, arrangements are being made by the enterprising citizens of the town to appropriately celebrate Independence Day: and

Whereas, as a general civic improvement and in order that our city may have as nice an appearance as possible, I deem it necessary to have a general clean-up week.

NOW THEREFORE, I Grant Murphy, Mayor of the town of Stayton, Oregon, hereby publicly proclaim June 14th to 19th inclusive general clean-up week in the town of Stayton, and the people are requested to gather up all rubbish on and about their premises and move it out of the town to some convenient dumping ground one of which is on the bar on the south side of the river. You will also greatly assist in the celebration exercises by decorating your places of business and homes with flags and bunting appropriate for the occasion.

Dated at Stayton, Oregon, this 7th day of June, 1920.

GRANT MURPHY, Mayor.

The good old days of the rheumatic are gone. He no longer tots a raw tater in his pocket. He goes to his doctor, his doctor sends him to the tonsil expert, the tonsil expert sends him to the X-ray expert, the X-ray expert sends him to the dentist, and the dentist returns him to the doctor, and the doctor sends him to the drug store. It's the life, boys.

Mary Van Kleek asks: "Is housekeeping due to become obsolete?" Well, Mary, if housekeeping goes out, the timorous and agitated male will cease to appear in the office of the marriage license clerk looking like a frightened dunce.

Editorial restraint is a wonderful institution. Think of the many opportunities for your favorite paper to tell "all it knows." If it ever did you would be willing to pay a dollar a copy—unless the joke was on you.

As we understand it, all thousand of them were Solomon's wives. The specified 700 were those that had registered and had their poll tax receipts.

"German honor was carried to its grave in the Hall of Mirrors," says a Berlin blatt. And carried not an hour too soon, as the neighbors were beginning to complain of the smell.

Nothing So "Cheap" as That.

A gentleman with a high-sounding French name has opened up the most exclusive jewelry store in town on Fifth avenue. Not a single article of jewelry is on display and nothing is sold for less than $10,000. The clerks look more like members of parliament in their frock coats and white silk ties. They wear silk hats and do not work. A lady went into the store recently to get an emerald ring. They showed her one for $18,000. "Oh," she said, "I only want to spend $1,000." There was an awkward pause and the clerk finally said: "Well, madam, we do not sell a ring for that price. You might get it farther down the avenue at Blank's"—and he named one of the oldest and best jewelry establishments in New York in the patronizing manner that he might use to designate a 5-and-10-cent store.

Those Girls.

Agnes—Put how in the world did you get him to propose?
Maudie—Oh, easily enough. I told him that you were crazy about him and reminded him that it was leap year.—Boston Transcript.

Law-Abiding Chinese.
In China, the oldest, largest, and most densely populated nation in the world, there are no policemen except in the cities controlled by foreigners, and in the foreign compounds of the Chinese cities. The head of a family is expected to keep order in that family and every inhabitant of a city is jointly responsible with every other citizen for its tranquillity. The Chinese are essentially a law-abiding and law-obeying people for that reason. If a younger son in a family should commit a crime the older son is likely to be taken into custody for the offense. For some crimes, such as patricide, which is the worst crime known in Chinese criminology, a whole city might be destroyed, and thousands made to suffer and bear a disgrace that would last for generations.

HERONS CLING TO OLD HOMES

Their Dwellings in Rotterdam Invaded. They Take Refuge in City's Zoological Gardens.

The gray herons of Rotterdam, familiar to the city for centuries, have gradually, according to a correspondent of the Times of London, been pushed out of their old territories to make way for the growth of the port. The waters had been gathered into canals, the spaces began to dry, and little by little new streets built on piles invaded the heron ground. Herons, unlike storks, do not take to the dwellings of men, but they cling desperately to their nesting places, the elms and the willows of the boulevards. Finally ousted, they preserved but one refuge and that the Zoological gardens, which in 1857 was established on one of the reclaimed areas. Some of the herons were put in an aviary and some of the wild ones, watching the proceeding, set up house in the elms close by. And so it came about that Rotterdam Zoological gardens can proudly lay claim to a natural herony in their gardens. But since 1857 Rotterdam has grown, and the parent birds have now four miles to fly to reach the waters for food for their nestlings. They cover the distance by day and night over the tramways, railways, and the noise and smoke of a city, the return to the nest marked by the usual outburst of welcoming cries from the voracious young.

Pull Together for an American Merchant Marine

The war resulted in the creation of a great merchant marine—10,000,000 tons of American ships which cost us $3,000,000,000.

Everybody agrees that we must keep this fleet on the seas.

If we fall back to pre-war conditions—when only 9 per cent of our foreign trade was carried in American ships—

We shall be in the position of a department store whose goods are delivered in its competitor's wagons.

Congress is considering legislation which will perpetuate our war-built merchant marine.

Until this is done the ships we have should not be sold to face conditions which, prior to the war, resulted in the decline of our merchant marine to insignificance.

This Committee calls attention to these facts because a right solution of our shipping problem is vital to the future prosperity of shipbuilding, but equally vital to the safety and prosperity of the nation.
