HOLY WELLS SPREAD DISEASE

Italian Pilgrims Resist Attempts to Prevent Their Using Polluted Pools They Hold Sacred.

Benares, the city of 2,000 temples, is also the city of holy wells. A pilgrim in Benares can put in a busy day making the round of these landmarks and complying with the ceremonies prescribed for those who would drink from them.

Only the devout Indian pilgrim would care to drink of the sacred wells, for custom says that flowers must be flung into them as peace offerings, and these decayed floral offerings tend to make the water unfit for drinking. The British government did clean up some of the most holy and popular of the wells in the interests of sanitation. But the Hindus were not pleased. They come hundreds of miles to enjoy the benefits of the holy water, taste, scent and all and they do not care to have it tampered with.

The most holy of the wells is the Well of Knowledge which stands near Benares' most ancient shrine, the Golden Temple, and is said to be the dwelling place of a very important god. The most mysterious is the Well of Fate. Any one who looks into the Well of Fate exactly at noon and fails to see his shadow is said to be doomed to die within six months. Of course, if the silent prophecy is unfavorable, the spirits can usually be bought off by offerings at the temple, conveniently near by.

In another well a snake god lives, and still another is dedicated to the spirit of healing. Pilgrims not only drink of the water of this well, but also bathe in it to make sure of the water's power being transferred to them. Half a million pilgrims tour the holy wells of Benares every year and drink enough of the water to stock up their systems with the germs of every disease known to India.
