W. C. Gauntt, Principal; D. C. Davis, Commercial; Mrs. Pratt, Misses Crabtree, Hollister and Phillips.

The Standard has received from the State Board of Forestry a large map of the forested portion of the State. It shows marketable timber, burnt and cut-over areas re-stocked and not restocked, brush land, etc. All surveyed sections are outlined. The map may be purchased for $5.00 from State Forester F. A. Elliott, Salem.

The Joe Korinek home in the northern part of the city was the scene of a jolly gathering on Friday evening when Mrs. Jos. Korinek and Mrs. H. A. Beauchamp entertained the members of the Eldeen club and their husbands in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Parry, of Junction City. The house had been tastefully decorated for the occasion with Oregon grape and wild currant, two of Oregon's most popular wild shrubs that are at their best now. 500 furnished the entertainment for the evening, Dr. Korinek carrying off the handsome prize. An excellent lunch was served at a late hour. It is reported that this party was indeed an enjoyable affair.

"Genuine Toric" "Kryptoks"

Optical service measures its standard of achievement by the degree of service it can render its patrons—the sale of a pair of glasses is not the end of a transaction, but the commencement of relations which, so far as I am concerned, are perpetual.

My patrons are satisfied patrons because my service is cheerfully and freely given—because promptness, courtesy and efficiency predominates.

If upon examination it is found glasses are not needed—you are told so promptly. If you do need them, the utmost in professional skill—the most modern methods—the most accomplished eye-glass adjuster are at your command.

"KRYPTOKS" The Perfect Lens "GENUINE TORICS" The Invisible Bifocals

I do not use drops or drugs in making examinations as they are dangerous.

Miss Gladys Jones, daughter of F. I. Jones, and who has many friends here, was united in marriage Saturday to John L. Kelley a pharmacist of Albany. Mr. Kelley was employed in the E. C. Peery drug store in Scio for some time and is spoken of as a fine young man. Gladys has been staying with relatives in Scio for some time. F. I. Jones, wife and son, Harry, attended the wedding.

Speaking of A. C. Libby, the Woodburn Independent says: "He served in the legislature two terms—1909-'11—with credit to himself and to his constituents, and if elected as County Commissioner, will undoubtedly work along the same progressive lines and help raise the County Court of this county out of the 'mossback' class. He is also a firm believer in good roads, lower taxes and furthering the agricultural interests of the county along progressive lines.—Woodburn Independent.
