Hear Chamberlain.

W. W. Elder, J. T. Kearns, J. R. Miller, and J. Missler went to Salem Monday evening in the Missler car to hear Hon. Geo. E. Chamberlain. They report the Grand opera house crowded, and the audience very attentive. Senator Chamberlain reviewed the acts of the administration, did not touch politics, and gave his hearers the facts connected with the last session of congress. Speaking of the Mexican situation he declared that Mexico's problem is her own, that her people are trying to establish liberty after their own fashion and that it is not the duty of the United States or any nation to attempt to dictate to Mexico. He said that in the event of intervention the soldiers would sacrifice their lives on the altar of Mammon and not on the altar of honor because the insistence for intervention comes chiefly from Americans holding large interests in Mexico which they wish protected.

Senator Chamberlain paid a tribute to the Americans of foreign blood, saying that he admired them for their loyalty to their own fatherlands, holding that it was only a proof that in the event of necessity they would be equally loyal and patriotic Americans.

WOULD LIKE ANOTHER TERM.

William Galloway.

Wm. Galloway is an Oregon pioneer of 1852. He was raised on a farm in Yamhill county. At an early age he struck out for himself with a pack train in Eastern Oregon and Idaho. He made his way through school and graduated from Willamett University. For several years he taught school and farmed in Yamhill county; was elected to the legislature three times and made an enviable record for fearless independence.

In 1890 he was elected County Judge of Yamhill; when he took the office the county was heavily in debt, with a high tax levy; at the conclusion of his term (he was not a candidate for re-election) he retired with the county out of debt and with the lowest tax levy of any county in the state.

In 1896 Judge Galloway was appointed Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Oregon City. During his incumbency in that position he rendered many important decisions involving complicated land titles, and accounted for nearly $100,000,000 without a solitary error.

During an exceptionally busy and eventful life Judge Galloway has found time to participate actively in many enterprises for the up-building of Oregon. For many years he has been a farmer, has engaged extensively in stock-raising and horticulture, and still owns and operates a farm in Yamhill county. He is a life member of the old State Agricultural Society which started the Oregon State Fair, and was for several years president of the State Board of Agriculture. He is an ex-president of the Oregon Pioneer Association and a life member of the Oregon Historical Society.

In 1904 Judge Galloway was one of the Democratic nominees for Circuit Judge of the Third Judicial District, comprising Linn, Marion, Polk, Tillamook and Yamhill counties—all strongly Republican. He was elected, carrying four of the five counties. In 1910, as a candidate for re-election, he made no other campaign than that of his record in office. The result was that he received the highest vote of any of the four candidates, carried decisively every one of the five counties, overcame a Republican plurality of at least 6,500, and was elected with more than 1900 votes to spare.

Commenting on Judge Galloway as a Circuit Judge, the Oregonian, in a special article a few years ago, said: Judge Galloway has a very practical sense of justice and equity, as well as a good understanding of human nature, which enables him to form an accurate estimate of the value of testimony. . . . He believes in settling cases out of court, if possible, and has advised parties to settle their differences by agreement even after a case has been argued. His record on the circuit bench is of particular interest at this time, when there is much general discussion of the disposition of American courts to give exhaustive consideration in technical and interlocutory questions. That he is not skilled in such phases of legal practice and at the same time has a remarkable record for affirmances in the Supreme Court, is deemed worthy of more than a passing thought.

Many strong letters and editorials commendatory of Judge Galloway can be submitted, but space here permits the reproduction of only a few.

The late Ex-Governor Wm. P. Lord, himself for many years able member of the Oregon Supreme Court, wrote to Judge Galloway at the time of his candidacy for the Circuit Judgeship: "I have no hesitancy in saying that years of acquaintance with you have given me some knowledge of your common sense, sound judgment and fidelity to public duty, and that your high regard for judicial duty and justice is an assurance that if you are elected to the circuit judgeship, you will regard it as a post of honor and cautiously and safely guard the rights and interests of litigants, and conserve to the best of your ability the public interest."

The Albany Daily Democrat, in an editorial under the heading "An Honest Judge," says: "It would be too much to claim for any jurist that his decisions are invariably upheld by the unanimous verdict of the jury, and the members of the legal profession. The Democrat makes no such claim for Judge Galloway. We do claim, however, that he has always been guided by a spirit of absolute fairness and strict impartiality. His legal mind has never been swayed by partisan prejudice or by popular clamor. He has attempted to perform his duty in complete harmony with the law and evidence. The Democrat has confidence in both the integrity and ability of Judge Galloway. We, therefore feel that he is well worthy of support."

If honored by election by the voters this time, Mr. Galloway says he does not expect to run again.—Oregon Messenger, Republican.

Gehlhar Supported Without Regard to Politics.

Gehlhar, that's the man who, because we know him to be able, honest, economical, and courteous, we have laid aside politics and our people, for their own interests, to support for district attorney, and we believe they will do it.

His record as a public official entitles him to the solid vote of the taxpayers. They need him.—Jefferson Review.

Sudden Deaths.

Fery

Michael Fery, for a number of years a resident of this place, died suddenly at his home Sunday night. He had been in his usual health, but on retiring did not seem so well. During the night his wife noticed that his hands were cold, and on looking further discovered that he had passed away in his sleep.

The funeral service was held at the Catholic church in this city this morning at 9:00 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Fr. Lainek, and was largely attended. An obituary will be published next week.

Denny

At the family home in the Waldo Hills, Monday, at 11 a. m. occurred the death of Miss Henrietta Denny, after an illness lasting only from Saturday.

Miss Denny was born in the Waldo Hills, Feb. 14, 1859, the day in which Oregon became a State. She received her early education in the school near her home, later attending Willamette University, where she graduated with honors.

For fifteen years she followed the vocation of teaching, in which she proved very successful. She then returned to the home place, where she has since made her home with her brother, Ernest and sister, Miss Clara, who with her brothers, Elmer and Byron are left to mourn her passing. Miss Denny was well liked by her acquaintances and her death will be a sorrow to many friends, who will sympathize with the bereaved relatives in their loss.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the Methodist church, Rev. Lockhart officiating, and there was a large attendance at the services.

Give Novel Party

Mesdames J. M. Ringo and J. W. Mayo were hostesses at a novel party on Friday evening at the home of the latter. Their guests were: Dr. Beauchamp and wife, Dr. Korinek and wife, Mrs. Joe Peery, S. C. Stewart and C. J. Korinek. All the party were dressed in either Japanese or Chinese costumes and the decorations, place cards, lunch etc., were in keeping with these nations.

Cards and music furnished entertainment for the evening, but the most merriment came when the guests were initiated into eating with chop-sticks.

Methodist Church

Ex-Chief of Police Slover, formerly of Portland, will speak in the Methodist church Sunday night in the interest of the campaign against the brewers amendment and for the prohibition amendment, the service beginning at 7:30. R. G. Miller of Portland will accompany "the chief" and it is expected will sing a number of songs, with guitar accompaniment. The public is cordially invited to hear this man who because of his practical experience in a metropolis, with crime and its cause, is in a position to know whereof he speaks.

The pastor will preach at the morning hour on "The Adolescent Mind and The Literature in the Home."

Last Sunday night at this church the cause of the Armenian sufferers was presented, and an offering made of over seven dollars. Prof. Gauntt, Albert Pancoast, Mrs. Horace Lilly, F. F. Foster and others taking part in putting the matter before the congregation.

Mrs. J. E. Slover is visiting at the home of her sister Mrs. Jim Thomas near Salem.
