Inspects Routes.

Postmaster Alexander made his first tour of inspection of the rural routes with carriers M. J. Crabtree and L. J. Rock, the past week. He reports the roads generally in good condition, and the farmers along the routes interested in improving them. The farmers appreciate the advantages of the rural mail service, and are putting the roads in good repair as fast as possible in many places. Some roads should be put in better shape than they are and doubtless will be soon.

The boxes along the routes are generally good, although some might be made more accessible, and a few might be improved upon as to kind. Most of the patrons have named and numbered their boxes, in accordance with the regulations. Carrier Crabtree has a route of about 27 miles, while carrier Rock drives about 24 with a prospect of an extension. Both carriers are accommodating and careful and are well liked by their patrons, as frequent tokens of appreciation prove. The Stayton postoffice has on its rural routes a lot of prosperous, industrious farmers, and it is the aim of the carriers and the postoffice to give them good service.

Mielke Locked Out

Tuesday afternoon John Mielke missed a couple of padlocks and chains from his store. This morning when he came down to open up the store he found that during the night someone had put one of the chains on the awning brace, had attached the lock to the second chain the lock of which was on the store door. Of course, John being without keys couldn't open the door of his store, but later when he went to get his morning mail found that someone had mailed him the keys to the locks. John enjoys a joke and took the matter good-naturedly, but he says he is pretty sure who played the trick on him, and that he sure is going to try to get even.

The Judge Hits Hard.

Galloway Strikes from the Shoulder in Replying to the Slanderous Circular Issued by R. P. Hutton, of Portland.

If the people of the Third Judicial District want a judge who will decide cases to suit any individual, class or interest, regardless of law or fact; if they want a judge who will bargain and traffic in decisions to gain popularity; if they want a judge who can be controlled or intimidated - then they should vote for some one else. If re-elected I shall, as in the past, know neither "wet" or "dry," Republican or Democrat, friend or foe, in the decision of any case.

I submit my cause to all right-thinking women and men, regardless of party, class or creed; to the people who want fair fights and honest elections; to the people who detest the eleventh hour mud-slinger, the secret slanderer and the liar; to the people who do not want their judges fixed nor their juries packed.
