Ignore the Law

Political leaders talk of ignoring tax limitations, a law that was enacted by popular vote at the November election.

As it is a constitutional amendment, that will be dangerous undertaking and may involve the state in costly litigation.

There is complaint that under that law not enough taxes can be levied to meet budget requirements and new state demands.

It should be remembered that what is called the budget is nothing but demands of officials and departments, some not necessary.

So far candidates for heads of the two branches of the legislature come from countries that demand increased appropriation.

There is no serious thought of cutting off some most ancient and unjustifiable grants by the legislature itself, like clerkships, etc.

The legislature thinks nothing of taking forty thousand dollars for clerks, mostly useless as a fifth wheel on a wagon or even worse.

It is a well known fact that legitimate clerical work could be done with five or six thousand dollars at the outside, or even less.

Portland uplifters for revenue only are framing bills to create new boards, commissions and institutions, when all promised cut.

The general proposition override tax limitation will state and political history may result in abolishing the legislature.

When state valuations shrank millions, and the enacted tax limitations, should be honest retraced.

Birthday Party

On last Wednesday afternoon Mabel Bradshaw entertained a number of her little friends in honor of seventh birthday.

Several games were played and the children enjoying themselves very much. At four o'clock refreshments were served, after which Mable many happy birthday wishes were given.

Those present were Carrie Helen Richardson, Hilda Martha Small, Glorie and Weddle, Lucile Campbell and Mabel Bradshaw.

The proposed bill to commercial fishing on the river should get such a bad name in the legislature that the industry killing legislation kind will be proposed.

Roseburg—Total tax on Douglas county for 1917, 328, against $413,000.
