The Reaction at Everett, Wash.

The best evidence that our country believes in law and order and not in violence is shown by the reaction of public sentiment at Everett.

The shooting up of the town over attempt of a steamboat load of I. W. W. terrorists to end the shingle weaver's strike by force has weakened the cause of industrial revolution by force.

The organization that resorts to violence is doomed in our country and is not meeting with much support in its struggle for relief in courts, moderate socialists and labor union men not backing it up.

Wages on Pacific Coast are uniformly high and working conditions are far above average, and the only chance for those who resort to force is to pose as victims of persecution for free speech.

The advocates of loafing on the job, breaking up tools, spoiling materials, ruining machinery destroying property and applying the torch as a remedy for social injustice, are not Americans.

School Notes

Upon Friday evening, Feb. 16 the pupils of the H. S. aided by the grade pupils will present Kate Douglas Wiggin's famous work, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." This play is being put on under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waltemeyer and to be the best production ever attempted by the students. The proceeds from this entertainment are to be used to aid in paying the pledge of the H. S. students to the new gym. The boys of the H. S. have been very busy cutting wood to raise their share of the pledge. The girls, deciding not to be outdone are attempting to raise their part of the pledge by their housewifely accomplishments. Friday evening before the play, they will sell home made candy, in order to increase their sum.

The pupils of the Sophomore English class have been studying argument and debate. In order to prove that they have really gained by this study, they will give a debate in the H. S. assembly room, Friday afternoon. The proposition for debate is: Resolved: That foreign immigration should be restricted. The speakers on the affirmative side are, William Ryan, Cecilia Mielke and Lois Braeken. On the negative are Selma Schuff, Hugh Hurt and Beryl McLaughlin. The H. S. orchestra under the direction of Mr. Davis and the Chante Club under Mr. Hoffer, will furnish some special selections. The students of the classes, cordially invite their parents and all others interested in the school to come.

The pupils of the Jr. English class have begun the study of Edmund Burke's great speech in English Parliament, "Conciliation with American Colonies." The students are finding this study very interesting and expect to profit greatly by their work.

Next week the class in German II will begin reading Wildenbruch's "Der Letzte," one of the stories from the collection "Kinderthranen."

It looks as though the gym, was nearing completion. A few more days work will see the roof completed. The inside will take but a short time.

Since Miss Crabtree's moved upstairs Mr. Hoffer teaches all the music and art classes in the room Miss Crabtree formerly had. This gives the H. S. the entire use of a piano.

The 8th grade rejoices with Ralph Tate, who has had the heavy cast removed from his hip and is able to be out of bed.

All the grades are learning appropriate quotation for the month of February. Many are also studying the portraits of Washington and Lincoln and reviewing the history of these men. The Flag Salute has been learned in the grades as well as the H. S.

Olive and Edith Cavin, Beatrice Lockhart, Alma Farrar, and Marie Deidrich have been absent from school on account of illness.

John Olmstead is back in school after two weeks illness.

There are several cases of mumps in the city, but we hope that it will not spread any farther in the school.
