Dutch Bros. raises $20K for Verboort

On Wednesday, June 3, Dutch Bros. Keizer and the community banded together to raise $20,900 for Austin Verboort's family to help offset medical expenses. "Austin is part of the Dutch Bros. family, we knew we wanted to help," said Dutch Bros. Keizer owner Jason Eastman. "When we're able to partner with the community the results are amazing." Verboort, 16, known by his community and many Dutch Bros. Keizer employees as being a fun-loving kid, is currently in fair condition after he was involved in a collision on May 22. To help raise funds, Dutch Bros. Keizer donated proceeds from all drinks sold, raffled off a year of free coffee and had on-site donation buckets. All donations benefitted Verboort and his family. "We are so grateful to everyone who came through the stand and showed their support," said Eastman.

Showing up has its perks

Submitted Two Whiteaker Middle School students, Nicholas Weather and Ashlee Ellis, recently won iPads for perfect attendance during Smarter Balance testing at the school.

What is Shiatsu?

Shiatsu (shee ot' soo) is a Japanese form of massage, which uses acupressure and stretching to tune the body by balancing its flow of energy, called qi (chee). Unobstructed flow of this vital energy is both the cause and effect of good health. Shiatsu is based in Chinese medical theory, which says that the body has an energetic structure in the form of pathways or channels. Along these channels a person's energy flows, carrying nourishment and vitality to maintain proper functioning. Shiatsu can be done on the floor or a massage table. Receivers remain clothed and no oils are used.

OSM Shiatsu Certificate Program

Oregon School of Massage offers both an Eastern Focus for initial licensure and an advanced Shiatsu Certificate program, each unique in the Northwest. Most classes are practical, hands-on bodywork. Shiatsu is learned and practiced much like a martial art, ballet or piece of music. The form or 'kata', is like a musical score or piece of choreography. The kata means both the sequence of the massage, and the proper way of doing it. Done correctly, the kata generates a flow of qi within the bodies of both the recipient and the practitioner.
