More timing questions for mural

By CRAIG MURPHY
Of the Keizertimes

So far, the process for Keizer's second public mural hasn't gone as smoothly as the first one.

A proposed timeline to do a mural along the long north wall at Town & Country Lanes in September has been called into question lately.

As mentioned previously in the Keizertimes, at last month's Keizer Public Arts Commission (KPAC) meeting Jill Hagen introduced the idea of waiting until next spring to do the mural.

Among the issues has been finalizing a design. KPAC members agreed last month to select several images to use for a mural depicting the Keizer Iris Festival Parade. Members will review the top choices at their July 28 meeting.

City Councilor Amy Ripp, the council liaison to KPAC, volunteered herself and KPAC member Rick Day to get the wall — estimated to be 140 feet wide per Lore Christopher's measurement and nine feet high — ready for the project. That work would include pressure washing the wall, painting it with gray primer and then writing "Everyone loves a ?..." in large lettering.

However, there is currently a question of whether the project can go forward.

"We were talking about the perfect time to do it, whether the fall or next spring," Ripp said this week. "I don't think we're behind schedule. Where we're at in the process is waiting for a contract to be signed by both parties (city and business). Rick and I are ready to start prepping the wall. I hadn't heard we're on hold, we just had to get everything signed."

Ripp emphasized the prep work on the wall can be done whenever.

"We can prime it without the contract," Ripp said. "Rick has a pressure washer. That can be anytime. The last e-mail I got was we're waiting for the legal department, which wanted to finalize the artwork. Next meeting will go through all the pictures and decide what goes on it.

"I think people are excited about it, there's just a question about the process of doing it," she added.

Nate Brown, director of Community Development for Keizer, agreed prep work can be done but not anything more. "In reviewing the issues with the legal department, we have to be careful that we understand that anything that happens before the contract is signed is only on a one-on-one basis with the bowling alley — in other words, until this is officially a public art project, the city's liability coverage is not in effect and there is no latitude about what may constitute a sign and so no description, caption or image can be placed on the wall," Brown said.

Big Toy touch-ups underway

By CRAIG MURPHY
Of the Keizertimes

The Big Toy is open at Keizer Rapids Park, but the work is never done.

As mentioned last week in the Keizertimes, a kiosk is being constructed this weekend. That kiosk, to go by the main entrance, will include the names of sponsors and a history of the project.

Robert Johnson, parks supervisor for Keizer, said this week a water fountain will be installed soon.

The Community Build Task Force chaired by Marlene Parsons has been disbanded, though some members of the CBTF will still be meeting as a smaller group for the next year or so.

An open house is scheduled to take place at the Big Toy from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 29.

Parsons, who thanked CBTF members and project volunteers during the final task force meeting on July 7, led conversations on several final topics that night, including what to do with the website (keizerbigtoy.org).

"What needs to stay on there?" Parsons asked. "I think the volunteer information can come down."

Valeria Moore, who has volunteered her time building and maintaining the website, suggested she could have a page with a list of names of everyone who bought a fence picket.

"It takes just seconds to update something like that," Moore said.

Parsons suggested keeping a list of items to be purchased.

"We're still selling components, so we need to keep that up," Parsons said.

Pictures and video from last month's build dates are also being added to the website.

Ron Freeman, who along with wife Kim coordinated volunteer efforts, suggested keeping that going for future Big Toy needs.

"I have seen others builds with needs for maintenance, whether it be painting or cleaning," Freeman said. "They have a call out for volunteers. We can send out e-mails to everyone."

Brandon Smith noted the project's Facebook page could still be used, while Parsons added the city's new website could also be utilized.

Moore said getting the word out about cleaning days in the future shouldn't be difficult.

"I can send out an e-mail for a one-day cleaning," she said. "That's easy. It will be a simple fix. Just let me know about having something up there for volunteer cleaning."

Photos of old mural sought

The Keizer Public Arts Commission is seeking information about a mural that was painted on Albertsons in the late 1980s or early 1990s. At that time Albertsons was located at River and Chemawa Roads.

The commission is seeking information and photos of the mural for historical and recreation purposes. If you have information about the mural email publisher@keizertimes.com.
