ERRORS: S-K struggles to string wins on road

All five of the Dust Devils' runs were unearned. Corey Kimber was the winning pitcher and Smith the loser.

Gomez and Shilo McCall each had two hits for the Volcanoes.

Monday: Volcanoes 8, Tri-City 5

Salem-Keizer came from behind, went ahead in the seventh inning and added three insurance runs to take a 2-1 lead in the series.

This time the Volcanoes had 15 hits including three home runs and played errorless ball. Shilo McCall hit his fourth homer of the season with John Riley on base in the seventh, CJ Hinojosa hit the first of his professional career in the eighth and Chris Shaw hit a solo shot in the ninth.

As in the previous night's game, the last Volcano pitcher faced pressure in the ninth. Ryan Halstead, however, got tough after the first two hitters singled and McCall helped him with two running catches in left field.

Halstead was the winning pitcher. Louis Distasio was the losing pitcher, also in relief.

Tuesday: Tri-City 15, Volcanoes 8

Volcano errors were not the whole story of this one, but they may have rattled the Salem-Keizer players enough for the Dust Devils to even the series.

Tri-City led 3-2 after one inning, but the Volcanoes scored three times in the fourth and once in the fifth. The Dust Devils tied the score in the sixth and added three runs in the seventh and four

The Devils had 19 hits, with each man in the lineup getting at least one and Carlos Belen hitting two home runs and Mason Smith one. Jose Vizcaino Jr. homered for the Volcanoes in the fifth.

New pitcher Charles Owen, who had flown into Pasco just in time to suit up, was the losing pitcher in relief. Tri-City reliever Luis Hernandez got his first win of the season. Four Dust Devils had three hits each, with Steven Duggar the only

A 1-0 win opened the Volcanoes' five-game series in Pasco, Wash., Saturday, July 18.

Pitchers Mike Connolly and Cory Taylor combined for the shutout. Connolly, the winning pitcher, went six innings and ran his record to 2-1 with a big drop in his earned run average to 3.70. Taylor pitched the remaining three to get his first save. Each pitcher had seven strikeouts.

The lone Salem-Keizer run came in the second inning. Scott Price hit a twoout single to left field. After he went to second base on a wild pitch by Tri-City starter Brett Kennedy, John Riley brought him home with a triple to left.

Kennedy, the loser, was replaced after 2-1/2 innings by Griffin Russell, who pitched through the fifth. Elvin Liriano and Wilson Santos followed, each pitching two innings.

It was not quite a game of silenced bats. The Volcanoes and Dust Devils each had eight hits.

There were a few scoring threats. With one out in the top of the third, Ronnie Debavy struck out but reached first when Dust Devils catcherAustin Allen chased a dropped third strike. Debavy stole second for his eighth steal of the season. Steven Duggar walked, but Jose Vizcaino Jr. struck out to end the Volcano third.

In the Tri-City fifth, Nick Vilter hit a one-out infield single and stole second. He went to third as Kodie Tidwell grounded out, but the next batter, Rod Boykin, Haines added that Taylor "has really competed every The Dust Devils had the time we've given him the last chance in the ninth, with ball."

Asked how he had been improving his pitching, Connolly gave credit to pitching coach Matt Yourkin.

"He has me make myself as tired as possible," Connolly said of his workouts, "so I'm ready at game time.

Taylor, asked how he had been succeeding as a reliever, said he had been focusing on "off-speed command and locating the fast ball."
