Donors sought for choral music fest

Male Ensemble Northwest (MEN) are seeking donations to cover the cost of an all-day camp for male Salem-Keizer School District students interested in singing.

MEN traditionally present four major festivals during the school year across the Pacific Northwest and McNary High School will be hosting the event this year on Saturday, Oct. 17. Jim Taylor, director of choirs at McNary, is part of the MEN group.

The goal is to offer the camp free to all participants and the MEN organization has already raised $3,500 of the $7,500 cost through booster organizations at area high and middle schools. MEN is now seeking outside donations to cover the costs of music for each singer, a festival T-shirt and lunch for all participants.

All music provided will become part of the participants school music library after the festival.

All contributions are tax deductible through the McNary Fine Arts Boosters, a 501(c)3 entity, and the host organization for the MEN Sing! A Festival of Song for Salem-Keizer Boys and Young Men. Contributions can be sent to McNary Fine Arts Boosters, Note: MEN Sing! S-K 2015, PO Box 21832, Keizer, OR 97307. Contributions via charge and debit cards can be made by contacting Leah Garro at 503-551-7392 or e-mail, mcnary-finearts@gmail.com.

All donors will receive complimentary seats to the Festival Concert featuring the Festival Chorus and MEN from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on Oct. 17, in the Ken Collins Theater on the campus of McNary High School.

If unable to donate, but interested in attending the event, visit the McNary main office the week of Oct. 12 through 16, between 8 a.m. 4 p.m., to purchase seats for the concert. Tickets are $7 for preferred seating and $5 for general seating.

A howluva good time

Howl-a-palooza landed in Keizer Rapids Park Saturday, Oct. 3. Attendees turned out in costume and turned out in droves for the annual event that celebrates all things canine.
