Act quick to be Keizer's next city councilor

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

If you've ever wanted to try your hand at public service without the pesky long-term commitment, the Keizer City Council has a deal for you.

At its meeting Tuesday, July 5, the council declared vacant the seat most recently held by Dennis Koho, whose term was set to expire in January 2017. Koho resigned July 1 due to health concerns and the declaration sets in motion a timetable for the sitting members of the council to appoint his replacement.

Whoever is selected will serve on the council at least until January 2017, and will have to run for election to the seat in November if they choose to continue in the role.

Here are the important dates leading up to the swearing in of a new councilor in August:

July 22 – Interested candidates have until 5 p.m. to submit letters of interest and resumes for consideration. Submissions can be sent to City Record Tracy Davis at davist@keizer.org.

July 25 – Letters will be sent to all interested parties inviting them to give a presentation outlining their interests and qualifications on Aug. 1 beginning at 6 p.m. The letters will include sitting councilors' questions, if any.

Aug. 1 – Candidates will make their presentations and council members will vote to fill the vacancy in an open ballot.

The new councilor will be sworn in at the beginning of the city council meeting that evening.

Given the short time period when a new councilor is appointed and the election of a new councilor in November, Councilor Amy Ryan asked whether it is possible to postpone the appointment until a new councilor is elected.

City Attorney Shannon Johnson responded that the city charter was clear that the council should appoint a new individual to the seat within 45 days of a vacancy being declared.

“If you chose not to declare the vacancy, it probably couldn't be challenged, but it is vacant and the declaration” sets in motion the replacement process, Johnson said

A rose by any other name would ... be a cupcake?

Interested in a sweet treat? Then follow your nose to Keizer Florist.

No, it's not chocolate roses, but cupcakes that the long-time Keizer business has added to its offerings.

“We make everything from scratch,” said Michelle Sladick, manager of Simply Cupcakes, the new business-in-a-business at 631 Chema-wa Road N.E. “We tried using some mixes, but we found recipes we liked better putting them together ourselves.”

Simply Cupcakes offers a regular baker's dozen of cupcake options in addition to occasional specialties. Current selections include the Almond Joy, a coconut-filled cupcake with coconut cream frosting, sweet chocolate and accents of slivered almonds; the orange creamsicle, which emulates the vintage ice cream bars; and the cinnamon churro, a sweet cinnamon cupcake with cinnamon frosting and cinnamon-sugar on top.

Sladick said she had more experience cooking cinnamon rolls for family before taking on the cupcake duties, but she's enjoyed the transition.

“Business has been pretty good, people have either seen the sign in the window or bought some cupcakes when they are in to buy flowers,” Sladick said.

Owner Lisa Vasquez said the creamsicle is her current favorite of the bunch, but the recent addition of a banana split cupcake, which includes a pineapple filling with a cream icing, chocolate shell and a cherry on top, is running a close second.

“Michelle makes a wicked cupcake,” Vasquez said. Opening up the cupcake shop inside Keizer Florist represents a change of heart for Vasquez, who swore off the food business when she took ownership of the store and its then-cafe in February 2015.

In the end, the cafe made it easier to open the cupcake shop

“There was already a license for it in existence, so it was mostly a matter of transferring the ownership,” Vasquez said.

After earning a perfect score on Simply Cupcake's first health inspection, Vasquez said that is the goal every time now.

Rustlers strike, wrest Ethel from Keizer home

Cow rustlers hit a Keizer neighborhood recently, carting off a life sized ornamental Holstein cow from the front yard of a McLeod Lane home. Randall Blighton said the cow, which he calls Ethel, disappeared from his front yard even though it was in a cow pen, someone took it anyway.

cakes is meeting a dual need for Vasquez's business.

“We are lucky to have extremely loyal customers and staff, but the flower business takes a deep dive in the summer months. The cupcake business gives us a bit of extra revenue and it creates extra hours to keep employees on through the summer,” Vasquez said.

Simply cupcakes offers a selection in the store, but advance orders and wedding cupcakes are also available. For more information, drop by Keizer Florist, call 503-390-9035 or visit www.simplycupcakesoregon.com.
