

Volcanoes win two of last five

The Volcanoes wound up on the short end of a 6-2 score Aug. 26 in the first of a three-game home series with Eugene.

The crowd of 3,017 saw the lead change hands twice before Salem-Keizer, despite outpitching the Emeralds 10-9, yield two runs in the eighth inning and one in the ninth to the visitors.

For the first two innings, which were scoreless, the Volcanoes seemed to hit the ball a little harder than Eugene. Then, with one out in the top of the third, a throwing error by third baseman Manuel Geraldo got Zack Short to second base. Chris Pieters walked. A wild pitch by starter Matt Krook moved Pieters to second, with Short holding at third. Wladimir Galindo brought Short home with a single to left field.

Pitching coach Matt Yourkin went to the mound, but that did not stop Krook's troubles. A third wild pitch scored Pieters. A strikeout followed, but Marcus Mastrobuoni reached first base on a throwing error by Krook and advanced to second as Galindo scored.

The Volcanoes narrowed the lead in their half of the third. Dylan Manwaring, leading off, was hit by a pitch from starter Pedro Silverio. Geraldo singled to center with a grounder. Two outs followed, but Heath Quinn walked to load the bases. Ashford Fulmer scored Manwaring and Geraldo with a single to left. The inning ended with Eugene's lead cut to 3-2.

Nolan Riggs relieved Krook at the start of the fifth. Krook had struck out seven, walked five, and allowed three hits, but only one of the three runs charged against him was earned.

Tyler Peitzmeier took the mound for the Emeralds at the start of the fifth. Gio Brusa led off with a single to center. Quinn doubled to center, moving Brusa to third. Fulmer drove Brusa home with a sacrifice fly to center, with Quinn reaching third. Ryan Kirby brought Quinn home with a double to left, and the Volcanoes had a 4-3 lead.

Riggs pitched through the seventh inning. Marc Huberman took the mound for Eugene to start the fifth and pitched through the seventh, getting the win for a 3-0 record.

Jeff Burke, the new Volcano pitcher in the eighth, began by walking Tyler Payne. Jose Paniagua then singled to left. Jose Gonzalez advanced both runners with a sacrifice bunt. DJ Wilson hit an infield single, driving in Payne. Manager Kyle Haines went to the mound, but Burke's troubles were not over. Short bunted a single, but Paniagua held at third, and the bases were loaded.

Haines then returned, not to the mound but to the infield to dispute the call at first base, which was made by plate umpire Darius Ghani. Haines then asked the base umpire, Tanner Moore, for his opinion, thinking Moore may have been in a better position to see the play. Ghani ejected Haines for seeking Moore's opinion. Haines argued that he had a right to consult the other umpire, but Ghani did not relent. Hitting coach Ricky Ward took over the managerial duties. Galindo walked, forcing Paniagua home. The Emeralds had a 5-4 lead.

Chad Hockin pitched the bottom of the eighth, retiring the Volcanoes in order.

CJ Gettman, pitching the ninth for Salem-Keizer, began by walking Mastrobuoni. Yeiler Peguero, a pinch hitter, advanced him to second with a sacrifice bunt. Paniagua singled to center to score Mastrobuoni for the final run of the game.

The Volcanoes, facing Wyatt short on the mound, put up a ninth-inning fight. Ryan Howard walked. Two outs followed, but Fulmer singled to left. A pitch hit Kirby on the helmet, but he stayed in the game, and the bases were full. However, Kevin Rivers flew out to left.

"You've got to be better all the way," Haines said of the Volcanoes' spotty performance. He added that the umpiring supervisors should visit the ballparks more often.

Kirby, who made one of the Volcanoes' better performances, was asked what he thought they should work on to do better.

"Just being consistent," he said.

Aug. 27: Eugene 14, Volcanoes 9

The Emeralds clinched a series win by coming out ahead in this slugfest.

Salem-Keizer went ahead 7-4 with a five-run third inning, but Eugene scored six in the sixth and still was not done. The Volcanoes outthit their visitors 16-14 but made three errors to none for the Emeralds, who also made three double plays.

For the Volcanoes, Gio Brusa hit his ninth home run, Heath Quinn his eighth, and John Riley his second. For Eugene, Trent Giambone hit his fourth homer and Jose Paniagua his first.

Emerald starter Bryan Hudson allowed eight runs in his five innings but became the winning pitcher at 4-4. Stephen Woods started for the Volcanoes and allowed four runs in his three innings despite striking out six, but Matt Pope, the first of three relievers, took the loss by giving up seven runs.

Aug. 28: Eugene 6, Volcanoes 5

Mac Marshall had one of his best pitching starts of the season, leaving after six innings, eight strikeouts, and 96 pitches with a 2-1 lead.

Once he was relieved, however, Emerald bats started booming. Victor Concepcion, who relieved him, took the loss and a 4-7 record. Salem-Keizer suffered a series sweep.

Ryan Howard hit his fourth home run and Gio Brusa his 10th for the Volcanoes. For Eugene, Kevonte Mitchell and Tyler Payne homered.

Jed Carter was the winning pitcher in relief and Mark Malave picked up his eighth save.

Aug. 29: Volcanoes 13, Vancouver 4

Salem-Keizer snapped out of whatever it was and started this road series with a bang.

The Canadians started with a run in the first, and the Volcanoes answered with a run in the second and then pulled away from their hosts.

The Volcanoes' 13 hits included Heath Quinn's ninth home run, Julio Pena's second, and Zack Bowers' first. Manuel Geraldo had four runs batted in.

Starter Garrett Williams went six innings, striking out eight, and getting his first win against one loss.

Aug. 30: Volcanoes 5, Vancouver 4

The Volcanoes made the most of five hits to edge the Canadians in the second game of this series.

Melvin Adon, who started for Salem Keizer, struck out seven in his five innings and got the win for a 5-0 record. CJ Gettman, despite pitching only one-third of an inning, had his first save.

Vancouver fought back with two runs in the bottom of the ninth, but with two out, Gettman got Bryan Lizardo to ground out.

Manuel Geraldo drove in two runs for the Volcanoes.

McNary controlled the strong majority of the possession in the opening half, but struggled to finish against a well-organized and disciplined Woodburn defense that kept eleven defenders behind the ball in the Lady Celts attacking third.

Sophomore Anita Lao came on as a substitute in the 25th minute and brought a good mix of speed and physicality to the attack. Lao got behind the Woodburn defense and was drug down in the box to earn a penalty kick in the 37th minute.

Senior Isabella Heath slotted it home and the Celts took a 1-0 lead into the half.

Woodburn came out on a mission in the second half, but the McNary defense led by senior Abigail Smith was up to the challenge.

In the 70th minute sophomore Abigail Hawley finished a goal double assisted by a flick on header from sophomore Natalia Gonzalez that game from a free kick taken by junior Jessie Shore.

The Celts tightened up their defense in the final ten minutes and left Woodburn with a shutout and the win.

Next up, McNary hosts Central Tuesday at 7 p.m. in its home opener.
