Food truck rule revisions get commission approval

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

Keizer's rules regulating food truck permits are getting a second look now that the rubber has met the road.

After spending several long hours in 2016 establishing rules that would permit mobile food vendors, the same rules were back for revision at the Keizer Planning Commission meeting Wednesday, Feb. 8.

"We feel the need to clarify some design standards and make more clear what is expected of (vendors)," said Shane Witham, a senior planner with the city.

Witham said that the permit-issuing process revealed some oversights in the original rules prompting the need to reexamine them.

The Planning Commission approved all the proposed changes, which cover aspects ranging from parking to storage and signage, but the biggest impact is expanding the areas where food trucks are permitted.

Under the current rules, food trucks are only permitted in mixed use commercial zones, but the new rules allow mobile food vendors in all zones where eating and drinking establishments are an allowed use as well as public zones.

The new rules include:

- Requiring two marked parking spots for food trucks on vacant parcels.

- Clarifications that fixed or painted signs on the food trucks are exempt from signage code.

- Prohibitions on outdoor storage, meaning that anything that is required for the operation of the food truck must be on the truck. Temporary dining areas to shelter from the elements would still be allowed.

- New requirements for permanent outdoors eating areas when three or more food trucks are in close proximity.

- Prohibitions on drive-thru windows.

The approved rules also include requirements that any mobile food vendor parked on an approved site must be moved after three days out of operation.

"We had a scenario where the truck was being stored on the site. Essentially, someone could get the permit and store it on the site for up to a year for less than a month's rent at a storage facility. If you're going to be located in the commercial corridor, you need to be open," Witham said.

The annual permit fee for a mobile food vendor in Keizer is $75.

The recommended changes will now go to the Keizer City Council for final approval.

In other business:

- The March meeting of the Planning Commission was moved to March 15 to accommodate a hearing on a potential gas station at Safeway on River Road North.

- The commission received an update on the potential lease of city-owned land at Keizer Station for a movie theater. City Attorney Shannon Johnson said talks are still underway with a draft lease still in the formative stages. The lease would require a master plan amendment that would need planning commission approval before going to the city council.

Eating disorder awareness event scheduled Feb. 25

The Oasis Center for Counseling and Wellness invites the community to attend its Eating Disorder Awareness week kick off event on Feb. 25 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The event will be located at The Oasis Center, 4575 River Road N. Individuals will have opportunities to meet the treatment team, tour the facility, chat with local vendors, find resources and educational material, take part in activities and refreshments, and learn more about prevention and recovery. For more information, call 971-304-7245.

The Keizer Traffic Safety, Bikeways and Pedestrian (TBP) Committee held its latest meeting Thursday, Feb. 9. Here's what members discussed:

- The issue of a potential Safeway gas station was raised and members of the committee wanted to know what, if any, impacts it might have on the ingress and egress along River Road North and Chemawa Road Northeast. Those details have yet to be discussed at the city level, but members of the TBP committee may take part in future public hearings on the issue.

- Committee member Pat Fisher reported back on efforts to have wayfinding signs placed along the bike and pedestrian paths that runs parallel to the Salem-Keizer Parkway. Fisher and committee chair Hersch Sangster have suggested signage to city staff and received an estimated cost of $640. The project may qualify for funds through the Oregon Department of Transportation.

- Committee member John Maurice moved to continue the work of a subgroup, including Sangster and Fisher, exploring ways to improve Keizer's standing with the League of American Bicyclists (LAB). LAB bestowed an honorable mention as a Bike Friendly City in 2016 and provided feedback on ways to improve. Maurice wants to explore ways to act on the recommendations.

- Sgt. Trevor Wenning, the Keizer Police Department liaison to the committee reported on several recent efforts, including: the success of Keizer's Click It or Ticket efforts (the city has a 98 percent usage rate, higher than both state and national averages); the roundabout at Chemawa Road Northeast and Verda Lane Northeast continues to function well without a single crash reported since its opening in September 2016; and a Whiteaker Middle School permit request for a run/walk fundraiser in the Gubser and Country Glen neighborhoods to coincide with the total solar eclipse happening in August.

Salem-Keizer kindergarten registration opens Feb. 21

Registration for Salem-Keizer Public Schools fall 2017 kindergarten programs opens Feb. 21.

All elementary schools in Salem-Keizer offer free, full-day kindergarten. Students who turn five on or before Sept. 10 are eligible to register.

To register, visit the school and pick up a registration packet. If an individual is unsure what school is assigned to serve their residence address, visit the district's school finder page. Parents must complete and sign the forms in the registration packet and provide:

- Proof of residence. Examples of documents accepted include a copy of a utility bill, driver's license with current address, copy of rental agreement or any other such documents.
- Original birth certificate for the child. The school will make a copy and return the original to the parent.

Additional information about registration requirements can be found at www.salemkeizer.org.

Bikeways input wanted

The first open house for the Winter/Maple Family Friendly Bikeway planning project will take place on Tuesday, Mar. 7, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. The open house will be located at Broadway Commons, 1300 Broadway Street N.E. Admission is free.

The public is encouraged to come give their feedback for bike-able and walkable neighborhood streets.

Food and drinks will be provided by the North Salem High School culinary arts program. Salem-Keizer Education Foundation will provide children's activities.

A story titled Code change could lead to Safeway gas station in the Feb. 10 edition of the paper incorrectly stated that the Keizer City Council approved a text amendment lifting an overlay zone on the properties near the intersection of River Road North and Chemawa Road North. The council voted only to hear a discussion regarding lifting the prohibition.
