Ryan votes 'no' on city budget

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

The Keizer City Council had a packed agenda for its meeting Monday, June 5, but most of it was taken care of with little fanfare.

The only item that drew some dissent was the city's budget. While councilors approved the budget in a 6-1 vote, Councilor Amy Ryan took issue with a single item.

“I am struggling with the amount of direct and indirect support for the Keizer Chamber of Commerce,” Ryan said.

Ryan said the amounts were not a problem, but the source of the funding — the city's general fund that also pays for police services. Ryan said she would rather the funds be taken from the Transient Occupancy Tax collected through Keizer's hotel.

For that reason, she voted against the proposed budget.

Councilors unanimously approved a 55-cent increase in stormwater fees per equivalent stormwater unit. For the average residential customer it will mean an increase of $1.10 per bill beginning in January 2018.

The increase is expected to bring in about $75,000 more than the current year. The funds are used for improvements and upgrades to keep the stormwater system functioning and in compliance with federal standards.

“Our public works department has really turned (the increases) into something positive. We don't have the flooding that we used,” said Mayor Cathy Clark.

She cited Public Works Director Bill Lawyer and Environmental and Technical Division Manager Elizabeth Sagnmiller by name.

The council also certified lighting district assessments throughout the city that pay for improvements and maintenance on streetlights. Overall assessments were down slightly from about $418,000 to $407,000.

City Finance Director Tim Wood said it was the result of increased efficiency.

“We've gotten better at administering the program,” Wood said.

Salem Urban Development Director Kristin Retherford reported to the council on the need to update a consortium agreement between the two cities that allows federal money to flow more easily into the Salem-Keizer area. Having the three-year agreement in place allows the two-city area to draw the funds directly rather than having it funneled through the state.

Two different grant programs, totaling about $2.4 million, are at stake and provide funding for projects like housing rehabilitation; multi-family housing construction and conversion; tenant assistance programs; micro-enterprise training; homeless assistance, domestic violence services and fair housing activities.

Retherford said the funds do not yet directly affect a Keizer organization, but a number of the grants awarded go to organizations that serve Keizer as well.

She hoped that a planned outreach project this fall would yield eligible Keizer-based organizations.

Councilors approved by consent contracts for two major projects at Keizer Rapids Park (KRP).

Ross Recreation will install a pour-in-place surface at The Big Toy around September 15. The cost is $244,434.50 and will take about four weeks to complete. The play structure will be closed during construction. Volunteers from the Keizer Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints are setting aside time to remove the wood chips from the current site.

Knife River will be contracted to install approximately 2,000 feet of paved pathways in Keizer Rapids. The cost is $69,974.60.

Both KRP projects will be paid for with a grant.

Teen charged with stalking after breaking windows

A 17-year-old was charged with stalking a business after shattering windows at Keizer Sub Shop twice in May.

About 3 p.m. on Wednesday, May 31, Keizer police officers responded to the business at 4490 River Road North on the report of a gun being fired at the windows. The suspect then fled the scene.

Officers arrived and determined that it was unlikely a gun was used, but another officer found the suspect nearby on Cherry Avenue Northeast. He was detained and taken to the scene where he was identified as the culprit. He had also previously victimized the business with another broken window on May 7.

The boy was arrested for menacing, disorderly conduct and criminal mischief and taken to the Marion County Juvenile Department.

The following day, June 1, the same teen was found walking toward Keizer Sub Shop by a Keizer officer. Fearing he might be returning to do additional damage, and knowing the teen was on runaway status, he was taken into custody and issued an Oregon Uniform Stalking Complaint for stalking the business.

Keizer Police Deputy Chief Jeff Kuhns said the teen is a ward of the state that officials have had trouble placing in a home. The State of Oregon had placed him in a hotel room with Department of Human Services workers outside the room 24/7. However, the workers could not prevent the teen from leaving, only report him as a runaway when he did so.

Because of the escalating incidents, Keizer police detectives have requested that state officials find an alternative form of supervision.
