

Citizens, KPD make water rescue

Two Keizer citizens are being credited as life-savers after assisting Keizer Police Department and Keizer Fire District with a water rescue about 3:30 a.m. Friday, Aug. 11.

Keizer police received a report from the 1000 block of Rafael Avenue North that someone could be heard moaning and yelling south of the address in the Willamette River. A second caller from the 1200 block of Rafael confirmed the incident and reported they heard gurgling as if someone had gone under the water.

Officer Andrew McCowan responded to the call and was met by neighbors Dan Dietz and Bill George who offered to take McCowan out on George's boat to look for the subject. McCowan said the victim was treading water "but in a panic and very clearly running out of energy and drowning."

McCowan tossed the man a rope, and he and Dietz were able to pull the man to safety. The rescuers and victim met medics at the Keizer Rapids Park boat launch.

"This was a collaborative effort by citizens, police and medics. I believe Mr. Dietz and Mr. George helped save a life due to how quickly they jumped into action to aid the police, and subsequently (the victim)," McCowan said.

The victim was identified as a 50-year-old man from Independence. He told police he fell into the water at the Center Street Bridge in Salem and estimated he had been in the water for four hours before the rescue. He is believed to have suffered broken ribs from the fall.

Further investigation revealed that the victim had indicators of trauma and might have been under the influence of stimulants, said KPD Deputy Chief Jeff Kuhns.

"He was slow to respond to simple questions, had quick and rapid movements, shivers, and bruxism (grinding of the teeth). He was fully clothed, including socks. His speech was incoherent and most of what he said was irrelevant to the situation. When responding to questions, he used mostly one word answers, and then went on a tangent about something else," Kuhns said.

The recorded temperatures of the Willamette River in Salem on Aug. 10-11 was between 68 and 71 degrees.

HOME INVADER LEAVES VICTIM BOUND, INJURED

A 75-year-old man was sent to the hospital after a home invasion robbery on Bingtree Court Northeast on Monday, Aug. 7.

Keizer police responded to the report of a home being broken into in the 6100 block of Bingtree Court Northeast about 12:30 a.m.

The victim reported that the suspect had left him bound in duct tape, zip ties and shoelaces. A shirt was also placed over the victim's head and he was struck by an unknown object that may have been a handgun.

Keizer Police Lt. Andrew Copeland said police believe the suspect knew the victim and was seeking access to specific items inside the home.

"The public is not in danger," Copeland said.

While the case is still under investigations, Copeland added the department is "developing some great leads."
