Today in History

Stacy Allison of Portland, Oregon, becomes the first American woman to reach the summit of Mount Everest, which at 29,035 feet above sea level is the highest point on earth. Allison, a member of the Northwest American Everest Expedition, climbed the Himalayan peak using the southeast ridge route.

— September 29, 1988

Food 4 Thought

"No one remembers who climbed Mount Everest the second time."

— Edmund Hillary, first man to climb the mountain

Volcanoes plant eclipse time capsule

KEIZERTIMES/Derek Wiley
JT Walsh, 12, and Ethan Buik, 11, representing Keizer Youth Sports Association and Keizer Little League, place a time capsule commemorating the Total Eclipse of the Park Game held on Aug. 21 at Volcanoes Stadium. The capsule, which is a stainless steel cylinder weighing 8,125 pounds with a black marble marker weighing approximately 250 pounds, will be first opened on June 25, 2069 and then resealed and buried for its final opening on June 25, 2169, when the next solar eclipse passes over Keizer.

KNOW gets tropical with fundraiser

Percey Presents, the fund raiser staged by the Keizer Network of Women (KNOW), filled the Keizer Civic Center's conference hall with tropical decorations and Pacific music and 200 attendees.

Spirit of Aloha was the theme of the evening which raises funds for KNOW's community projects, especially the Christmas food and toy basket program that serves families in need during the Christmas holiday.

One of the main attractions of the Percey events is that one attendee wins the big prize of the evening: a Coach brand handbag. This year the winner of the handbag was Brenda Wright of Keizer.

Entertainment was provided by The Paradise of Samoa, a Polynesian Dance Troupe including young girls, all in costume, performing Pacific Islander dances. As the evening wore on the troupe taught attendees some dance moves.

The evening raised more than $18,000 for KNOW.
