they were concerned for their safety and that of bystanders.

Chapman positioned himself between two vehicles in the driveway of 1741 Springtime Court N.E. and turned to face the pursuing officers. Chapman ignored multiple commands to show both his hands and yelled back, "I have a gun." Chapman refused to drop the weapon. Once Wampler spotted the gun in Chapman's hand, he fired one shot from the AR-15 hitting Chapman in the head and killing him.

Chapman fell to the ground, but Wampler could see he was still holding onto the silver pistol. Because none of the officers on the scene could determine if Chapman was deceased or playing dead to lure officers into vulnerable positions, Barber ordered the use of a rubber round designed to cause pain but not death.

Officer Eric Hernandez, of the Salem Police Department, was ordered to shoot Chapman with the less-than-lethal round and hit Chapman's arm dislodging the gun. When Chapman did not respond to the impact, officers approached and requested medical support. He was pronounced dead on the scene.

The .22 caliber handgun had a bullet in the chamber, and was later determined operable. At the scene, law enforcement also recovered Chapman's backpack and searched it where $541 in cash was recovered. It was the same amount taken from Pizza Hut minutes earlier.

A toxicology screening after his death revealed the presence of methamphetamine, opiates, and THC (the psychoactive component in marijuana) in Chapman's system.

After the shooting unfolded, Oregon State Police investigated the events and 13 witnesses testified before a grand jury that determined the shooting was justified and lawful on Friday, March 23.

Specifically, the grand jury found that the officers reasonably believed the following:

- Chapman had committed and attempted to commit felonies involving the use or threatened use of physical force against a person;
• Deadly physical force was necessary to defend a peace officer or another person from the use or threatened imminent use of deadly physical force;
• Chapman had committed felonies or attempted to commit felonies and under the totality of the circumstances existing at the time and place, the use of such force was justified, and
• The officers' lives or personal safety was endangered in the particular circumstances involved.

"We thank the grand jury for their careful review of these very difficult circumstances. We further commend the investigative team. They continue to fulfill the important requirements of the Marion County Use of Force protocol, with skill, integrity, and transparency. To all our law enforcement in Marion County, and in particular, those officers who risked their lives on that day: We are grateful that you continue to protect and serve," said Marion County District Attorney Walt Beglau.
