

McNary basketball holding youth camps June 18-21

McNary High School will host girls and boys basketball camps on June 18-21.

The boys camp, led by varsity head coach Ryan Kirch, is scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon for incoming third through fifth graders and from 1 to 4 p.m. for sixth through ninth graders.

Camp will focus on developing fundamental skills—footwork, shooting technique, passing and catching, individual and team defense, dribbling and rebounding.

Cost is $55 and includes a camp T-shirt.

Campers should be dressed in proper attire—gym shoes and athletic gear. Do not bring valuables, money or jewelry as McNary High School will not be responsible for lost goods.

The girls camp, led by varsity head coach Elizabeth Doran, is scheduled for 5 to 8 p.m. and open to girls entering second through ninth grade. Cost is $50 and includes a T-shirt.

Questions can be sent to Kirch at 541-908-1609 or rkirch@hotmail.com or to Doran at coach.lizdoran@gmail.com.

“They tend to stick with Iowa because that’s where a lot of tough wrestlers go and are from and with Devin going to Grand View it gave me an opportunity there.”

Ebbs thought about playing football in college, too, and had an offer to participate in both sports at the University of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash.

“At the end of football season this year I was kind of thinking about it because I’ve played football since I was just a little kid, too, and I’ve always loved the sport of football,” Ebbs said. “But when wrestling season hit I think that’s when I decided I just wanted to be a wrestler. It was just kind of the leftover feeling from football being over and how I wasn’t ever going to play again so I think that was just me wanting to keep playing football. But I think after I got out of that little vision my mind cleared and I decided I just wanted to be a wrestler.”

Ebbs has been around wrestling his entire life. He was only 3 when his dad, Jason, took over the McNary program in 2003 after being an assistant coach at Crook County.

“Even at Crook County, I’d be on my dad’s shoulders as he was coaching on the side of the mat,” Ebbs said. “At McNary I grew into the wrestling community. I got to know a lot of the high school wrestlers and they all took good care of me. I just made good relationships with the wrestlers which helped me grow through wrestling and helped me become the wrestler that I wanted to be.”

When Brayden was 8, Jason saw how much his son loved the sport. Tired from high school practice, Jason told Brayden they could take the night off from mat club. Brayden responded, “If I don’t go to practice, they’re going to learn something I don’t know.”

At age 10, Ebbs joined the All-Phase Wrestling Club in West Linn, and finished third in Greco-Roman and freestyle at his first national tournament.

In high school, Ebbs won two district championships at 138 and 160 pounds. After placing sixth in the state as a freshman, he placed fourth as a sophomore and then third his senior year. Ebbs said his favorite match was his first at the state tournament when as a freshman he upset No. 1 seed Bennett Mesa, a sophomore at Roseburg, who had won the 106-pound title the year before.

“I think that’s my best match because I’d spent that whole season waiting to wrestle him and I wanted to wrestle him,” Ebbs said. “There were two times that I didn’t get to wrestle him when we wrestled against Roseburg and I finally got to wrestle him at the state tournament and I did exactly what I needed to do.”

All along the way his dad has been there.

“It helped me out a lot having my dad in my corner because I never didn’t have faith in my corner because my dad was there,” Ebbs said. “I always went out on the mat confident because we always had a game plan for anybody that we needed to. He prepared me well for my matches and just life in general.

“It’s going to be different going to Grand View and not having my dad in my corner but I think I’m going to be just fine and I think he’s (dad) going to be just fine knowing that coach (Nick) Mitchell over at Grand View is an amazing coach and they have an amazing coaching staff. It’s going to be a change but I think it’s something that’s going to help me out in the long run.”

game-winner.

Bolton, which entered the championship game 6-2, had defeated Dallas at the beginning of the season but then lost to them later.

“We knew it was going to be a close game,” Keizer coach Char Quinones said. “We’ve got a young team that we start off with and then we put the more experienced guys in the game. That’s what we were hoping for.”

Goalkeepers Luke Sullinger (first half) and Landon Storms (second) kept Bolton in the game.

The rest of the team includes Josh Matson, Josh Pemble, Zane Felber, Lucas
