Members of the Willamette Valley Victory Riders handoff go-bags to members of the Keizer Police Department at the city council meeting Aug. 6.

The Willamette Valley Victory Riders motorcycle club donated 10 go-bags to the Keizer Police Department for children removed from difficult situations at the Keizer City Council meeting Monday, Aug. 6.

During their Iris Festival Poker Run, the Victory Riders amassed $1,963 dollars in donations to the 4 Kids program, which coordinates distribution of the bags to first responders. The bags contain items like stuffed animals, handheld games and coloring books.

Coordinator Brandon Smith, a former Keizer city councilor, said the effort proved to be a big hit with participants.

"We had people walking up to us and handing us cash for the go-bags. One club from Washington passed a hat and gave us $137," Smith said.

Smith said the group is donating about 100 bags to local first responders as a result of the success.

Delbert Kurtz 1925-2018

Delbert Chester Kurtz was born in Keizer, Ore., near where Bi-Mart now stands, on November 1, 1925 to Frederick Godfrey Kurtz and Mary Barker Kurtz. During his adventurous youth, he spent time with his father in the forests of the Siletz, Rock Creek and Rogue River where they lived in cabins and gathered cascara bark to sell and mined for gold. He attended school in Salem until serving in the U.S. Navy from 1943-46, including the South Pacific War Theatre. He married Betty Reeve on June 20, 1947, recently celebrating their 71st wedding anniversary at home. Returning to Keizer in 1962, He worked at Oregon Pulp and Paper Mill and as an ironworker for Mercer Steel Co. until an early retirement.

Delbert was a descendant of early Oregon settlers, specifically Robert Godfrey, who came from England to Oregon in 1845 and took out a donation land claim in what today is West Salem in Polk County. The extended family of Mordecai and Celia Lane came in an 1853 wagon train from Missouri and settled in Marion County near Sublimity. Francis Anne Lane and Robert Godfrey were married October 11, 1855 in Salem. The Frederick-Kurtz family were early settlers in the Keizer area. Deb's grandfather, Frederick H. Godfrey, was adopted into the Kurtz family as a boy in 1916 at the age of 11.

Deb enjoyed playing and watching his children play sports. Baseball, golfing, and hunting were his favorites. He spent many hours traveling, camping, and hunting with his family - often teaching them the finer points of each. Deb was an avid golfer and hunter until very recently.

Deb is survived by his wife, Betty J. Kurtz and children John Richard Kurtz, Marguerita (Bub), Dillingham, AK; Gerald Reeve, Cindi, Prineville, Ore.; Michael Jeffrey, Cynthia, Keizer, Ore.; and Lisa Deb' Anne Atchley, Salem, Ore.; and 11 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren.

Private family services and interment were held at Restlawn Memory Gardens. Donations can be made to Union Gospel Mission, Salem, Oregon.

Mooney responded that she understood the concern, but that providing the meal was an important part of the organizational goals of bringing as many people as possible to the table.

"I believe that providing a meal and coming around a table over a meal adds to the collaboration happening. It's one less hurdle," Mooney said. She added that she is working on getting the meals donated, but the program is still in its rebuilding stages.

Councilor Bruce Anderson echoed some of Freeman's concerns.

"I would like more information about the programs you are supporting. I would like to see you taking the dollars and directing them toward the programs you are seeking to support. I'd like some more meat on the bones," Anderson said.

The approval for the $1,000 disbursement came with the caveat that the money not be used for meals and a request for regular reports back to the council on progress.

Mooney had lined up matching funds from the Salem Leadership Foundation and she was not certain how the limited disbursement would impact those plans.

The haggling over $2,000 came three weeks after the council forgave more than $13,000 owed by Keizer Little League to the facility it manages in a Keizer park.
